BOND ORDINANCE FOR NEW ROAD INTRODUCED*Council Takes Steps To Construct
Paper Mill Highway—Other Features Of Meeting

An ordinance providing for the issuance of $17,000 in 20-year, 5% bonds in denominations of $500, to cover the cost of constructing a concrete pavement on Seth street and Whiting avenue from Church street to the city limits, came up for reading at the regular meeting of the common council Tuesday evening. The issue is termed "Paper Mill Road Bonds" and would bear interest semi-annually. Under the rules the ordinance must be published in the official paper, The Gazette, before it can be acted upon.

The committee on city buildings, Aldermen Firkus, Myers and Schoetel, reported on the proposed new $75,000 high school unit. They admitted the over-crowded condition of the present building, as a result of which, if changes are not made, the city is liable to lose its state aid, and pointed out that the new unit, if built, would take care of the needs of the institution for 20 years to come. The unit would be one of three, which would comprise an entirely new building, and would contain a gymnasium on the first floor and assembly room on the second floor. The present building would be somewhat remodeled so that the assembly room would be converted into four classrooms. In order to enlarge the present building, the committee said, it would be necessary to almost entirely remodel the structure, which would still be an old building. The cost of this would be as great as the proposed new unit, they asserted.

A special meeting of the council will be held early in September, which members of the board of education, the state school inspector, the architect engaged by the board of education and all interested citizens will be invited to attend. It is proposed to then discuss at length the high school situation in an endeavor to reach a satisfactory solution.

A plat of Boyington & Atwell's Fifth Addition to the plat of Stevens Point, including territory bounded by Fremont street, Normal avenue, Michigan avenue and the Jordan road, was presented and was referred to the city attorney and street committee.

The territory in the proposed addition contains St. Michael's hospital, the dairy barn of the N. Boyington Co. and several residences. The plat shows that in case the addition is accepted, Illinois avenue will be opened from Normal avenue to the Jordan road; Briggs street will be opened from Fremont street to Michigan avenue; a new street, called Prais street, will be laid out along the north side of the hospital lawn and extending east from Fremont street to Michigan avenue, and still another new street, Jersey street, will be laid out extending east from Illinois avenue, at the rear of the hospital, to Michigan avenue. Two or three new residences are already being built in the proposed addition and the construction of the new St. Stanislaus Catholic church just west will encourage many others to build, it is believed. It was stated that provision had been made for opening up the streets without expense to the city.

Engineer Maxfield reported on the proposed new route for the Brawley street storm sewer. Owing to the proposed construction of the new Jackson mill dam, it is necessary to deviate from the original course and Mr. Maxfield recommended that the new route start just west of the Green Bay track near the Joerns factory and extend southwesterly to Wisconsin street and thence to the river. This is about 250 feet longer than the original route, but less stone will be encountered, Mr. Maxfield reported. The report was adopted and the city attorney was authorized to enter into negotiations with the Jackson Milling Co. to secure a permanent right-of-way through that company's land. The question of whether to build the sewer by contract or day labor was left to the street committee.

The state board of control called attention to the fact that its recommendations for the construction of a concrete floor and roof ventilator in the North Side calaboose had not been complied with. The matter was referred to the committee on city buildings.

A petition was presented asking that the city lower the water mains on Church street between Wisconsin and Shawano, to a point below the frost line. It was stated that owing to the fact that the main was not lowered when the pavement was built, considerable expense and inconvenience had been experienced because of frozen water service. The matter was referred to the street committee.

Residents of the Fourth ward want an electric light at the corner of West and Wadleigh streets. The lighting committee will diagnose their case, with the assistance of the recently engaged expert, who will lay out the new lighting system.

The judiciary committee and city attorney reported unfavorably on the plan to standardize bread sales in the city by ordinance. They said the bakers here would be at a disadvantage if forced to observe minimum weight regulations, owing to outside competition. The bakers, they said, are not averse to regulations of this kind if applied all over the state, but their facilities are such that at present it would be impracticable. It was reported that the average 10 cent loaf of bread now sold by local bakers weighs one pound. The report was adopted.

The comptroller was authorized to make some arrangement for the use of the city's scales on the public square the coming fall and winter. J. A. Peck offered to rent the scales, but the council felt inclined to engage a man to take charge, he to give to the city all proceeds over $50 a month.

Bids for the purchase of city buildings on the South Side were opened. J. Iverson offered $700 for the Berndt, Gleason, McDonald and Feit buildings and said if the city would waive the fire limits requirements and allow him to keep them on his property in that part of the town, he would line them up and erect a brick front as well as a cement walk on the street to extend from Division to Elk. W. N. Wiley offered $400 for the Feit residence, while A. J. Sprague signified a willingness to pay $200 for all the Feit buildings. Charles C. Fulton bid $20 on a barn at the rear of the Berndt hotel. The council, surprised at the smallness of the offers, decided to re-advertise for bids.

The chief of the fire department was instructed to take immediate action to protect the city and the public from loss and injury from the Sellers Hotel building, which was gutted by fire a year ago and has been condemned as unsafe. He was given authority to proceed in the best manner possible and to demolish the building at the owner's expense if possible.

Charles Scholl was ordered to construct a cement walk along his property at the intersection of Church St. and Monroe.

A bill of $420 presented by Finch Bros. for the repair of the drinking fountain in front of the Arlington Hotel was allowed.

The city clerk was granted a 10 days' vacation.

Alderman Schueller suggested that the fire whistle be blown in case of fires so that the public will be informed of the ward in which the fires occur. He thought the blast should be a half minute for each ward, in other words one blast for the First ward and six for the Sixth ward. This was referred to the mayor to take up with the Water Co.

It was stated that Pionke child, who was sent to Milwaukee by the city a couple of months ago for treatment for hair-rip, is getting along satisfactorily.

The mayor appointed W. F. Owen, Mrs. N. A. Week and Mrs. J. M. Bischoff as members of the library board. Alderman Manthey was absent from the meeting.

OLD SETTLERS' PICNIC

The annual picnic of the Portage County Old Settlers' association will be held at Lake Emily on August 18, according to an announcement by H. H. Hoffman, president. Arrangements for a program will be made and a big day is in prospect.

MALICK FARM IS SOLDChicago Man Buys Valuable Property of 556 Acres in Town of Linwood

A. E. Dase, of the Junction City real estate man, spent part of last week in Chicago, where he closed the sale of what is known as the J. P. Malick farm just below the Stevens Point city limits, in Linwood township. The purchaser is Fred Becklenberg, a Chicago capitalist, who intends further development of the property, comprising 556 acres and on which is located a handsome modern house, immense barn and other good buildings.

The purchase was made from P. C. Dunning of Elgin, Ill., who has been owner for a couple of years. Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Brush came here from Belvidere, Ill., last spring and have since been in charge of the place. They returned to Illinois Tuesday and are succeeded by Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Stolle, recent residents of Antioch, Ill. Mr. Brush and wife also spent a portion of last season in Linwood and both of them enjoyed their stay in this vicinity. They have large property interests at Belvidere.

A considerable quantity of the Dunning land is already under cultivation, but more of it can easily be cleared and made available for grain raising or pasturage.

The new owner has already made preparations to repaint the buildings, repair old fences and build new ones and make other improvements of a substantial nature. Twenty-five head of thoroughbred Holstein cattle will be put on the place as soon as they can be purchased and a large flock of sheep will also be added. Several thousand dollars will be expended in the improvements and additions noted above.

Mr. Becklenberg is the gentleman who recently bought the Dase farm in Eau Claire and several big tracts in the Dasey drainage district, his total holdings in that section now comprising 3,500 acres.

FORMER RESIDENT INJURED

Rev. Marcus P. McClure of Hollywood, Cal., who will be kindly remembered by many Stevens Pointers as a former pastor of the Presbyterian church here, was quite seriously injured in a fall while alighting from a street car about five weeks ago. The injury was at first considered to be only a bruise on one of his knees, but it later developed that the bone in the joint had been chipped. As a result the limb has been encased in a plaster cast ever since, but it is hoped that he will suffer no permanent ill effects.

A CELEBRATED CASE A PIONEER IS GONELittle Boy Snatched From the Jaws of Death by Local Surgeons and Made Well Again

Ferdinand, the eight year old son of Mr. and Mrs. Nick L. Simonis of Rosholt, who had been a patient at St. Michael's hospital for 68 days, returned home last week and will soon have fully recovered his strength. While playing with other children last winter the little fellow was struck on his right side, rupturing the internal organs and producing an abscess or swelling as large as a baseball. He was treated at home for several weeks, with no beneficial results, and it was finally decided to bring him to the local hospital.

At that time the lad's condition was so serious that there seemed no possibility for recovery, in fact the attending physicians expected his death within a few hours. The next day an operation was decided upon, although only faint hopes were held out, and for several weeks thereafter he was barely kept alive. A change for the better then set in and the little fellow is now nearly as well as ever.

It was a remarkable case and reflects additional credit on the ability of Stevens Point surgeons and the good care given all patients at the local hospital.

DEATH FROM CANCER

Mrs. Stanislaw Hoffman, aged 66, died at the family home in the town of Dewey last Wednesday from cancer of the stomach. Mrs. Hoffman leaves her husband and seven children. The funeral was held from St. Casimir's church in Hull Saturday.

HERE'S NERVY TRAMP

A few days ago a man appeared at a local hotel and registered for the night, saying he had obtained work at the Railway Materials Co.'s plant. Next morning he partook of a hearty breakfast and a noonday meal was packed for him in a dinner pail that cost $1.25 and was practically new. Neither tramp, nor payment for bed and meals has since turned up.

CANT FOOL M. D.'S

"Six," said the examining doctor in a low tone while examining the hearing of a prospective soldier at the court house Tuesday. The registrant had one hand over an ear, in accordance with the rules. He professed not to hear. "Drop your hand," said the doctor in a still lower tone. Instantly the hand went down. Variations of this performance were staged with some frequency and the doctor's little coup never failed to bring results where deception was intended.

DOUBLED EACH YEARHickey Cheese Factory in Lanark
Has Worked up Remarkable
Business Since 1914

John E. Hickey, proprietor of the cheese factory in Lanark township, spent Monday in this city, coming up to take the army draft examination. He devoted four years as a marine in Uncle Sam's navy and likes the service so well that he is not averse to again entering it. However, he feels that his present occupation in manufacturing large quantities of eatables is of greater value to the government.

Mr. Hickey reopened an abandoned factory three years ago and has developed a remarkable business, his output having doubled in quantity each season. He now has 72 patrons, most of whom have greatly increased their herds within the past year or two. In the month of June checks aggregating $5,000 were distributed among the farmers of the neighborhood.

VISITING SISTER'S HOME

Percy and Philip Walker are enjoying a week's visit at the home of their sister, Mrs. E. W. Langenberg, 554 Briggs street. Percy's home is at Green Bay but he has devoted the past several months to travel through the east, visiting Philadelphia, New York and other interesting places. Philip Walker has lived in the west for the past eight years, located at Algoma, Oregon. Both gentlemen have a considerable acquaintance in Stevens Point.

COMING WEST ON VISIT

Prof. and Mrs. John Phelan and little son, John, are expected here within a week or two for a visit among numerous friends. Mr. Phelan was formerly in charge of rural school work at the Stevens Point Normal but he and his family went to Amherst, Mass., a few years ago, where the gentleman now supervises the rural department in Massachusetts State Agricultural College. Many friends will be delighted to see them.

WILL TEACH AT MARSHFIELD

Miss Katherine M. Evans of Fond du Lac was the guest of Miss Doris Mason for a few days prior to Tuesday, when she left for Wausau, and was accompanied by Miss Mason, who will visit for a couple of weeks at the home of her sister, Mrs. Cleveland Kingsbury. Miss Evans and Miss Mason taught in the Fond du Lac schools last year, but the latter has accepted a position as teacher in the Marshfield schools for the coming year.

Andrew R. Week, One of Central Wisconsin's Leading Citizens,
Dies in California

The career of Andrew R. Week, Stevens Point's pioneer lumberman and one of the city's most useful citizens, came to a close at the home of his sister, Mrs. Theophilus Gribi, at Hollywood, a suburb of Los Angeles, California, at 7 o'clock last Friday morning.

The end was peaceful and was not without an element of suddenness. Although Mr. Week had not been in normal health for several years, it was not until about a year ago that his friends were aware that his condition was at all serious. On March 20 last he left Stevens Point, with his sister, Miss Martha, for California, and he had since been at the Gribi home.

Up to within three weeks of his death Mr. Week was able to be about, and motor trips on celebrated California drives were a source of keen enjoyment to him. He was confined to his bed for ten days, but was fully conscious up to the very last. He talked freely during the closing days of his life, was interested in events transpiring throughout the world, and even made arrangements for his funeral, which he requested to be in charge of the Masons. Those at his bedside never abandoned hopes that his life might be prolonged, but were perhaps less familiar with the progress of his case than Mr. Week himself, who studied his ailment and the methods of treatment necessary as a specialist might do.

A simple service was conducted at a chapel in Los Angeles at 10 o'clock Saturday morning, at which Rev. M. P. McClure of Hollywood, a former pastor of the Presbyterian church in Stevens Point, officiated. At 1:25 that afternoon the funeral party started for Stevens Point, arriving this morning.

All of the local banks and many other places of business were closed this afternoon during the funeral hour. The service at the residence on Pine street was conducted by Rev. John A. Stemen of Ripon, formerly pastor of the local Presbyterian church. At 2:30 o'clock the services at the Presbyterian church took place. Rev. A. S. Badinger, another former pastor, gave the opening prayer; Rev. John A. Stemen gave a scripture reading and made remarks on the life of Mr. Week, and Dr. W. O. Carrier, retiring president of Carroll college, Waukesha, brought a message from outside friends. The Knight Templars had charge of the services at the grave and a Knights Templar escort attended the funeral. The pall bearers were Nels Johnson, Ole Larson, Theodore Larson, Rasmus Peterson, Ole Roseth, Sr., and Knute Voge, all old employees of Mr. Week.

Miss Martha Week, Mrs. Theophilus Gribi and Arthur Week accompanied the body of Mr. Week from Hollywood. They were met at Chicago and accompanied to this city by Mr. Gribi, O. A. Kreutzberg and Erling F. Week, the two latter being residents of Chicago. Miss Cora Week arrived here from New York city Monday morning; Mrs. O. A. Kreutzberg and daughter, Marguerite, came from Chicago Tuesday, and Mrs. Erling Week and daughter, Katherine came Monday night. Marius P. Jacomini, vice president of the General Bricksetting Co. of Chicago, of which Mr. Week was president, arrived this noon. Daniel Lee of Dodgeville and Mr. and Mrs. George Lee and son of Edmund, Wis., are among the others who are here for the funeral, the two gentlemen being cousins of Mr. Week.

Andrew Riber Week was born April 5, 1857, in Koshkoning, Dane county, Wisconsin. He was a son of John Week, who came to America in 1839 and who, in 1851, purchased a small sawmill on the bank of the Big Eau Pleine river in Marathon county from his brother, Andrew Week, who was attracted to California by the "gold rush" in 1851. The sawmill, which was one of the first in that section of the state, was operated by John Week until August, 1880, when it was destroyed by fire. He had six million feet of white pine logs in the pond at that time and these he floated down the Eau Pleine and Wisconsin to Stevens Point to be manufactured into lumber in the mill then owned by the late Owen Clark near where the Jackson Milling Co.'s plant now stands. In the following year John

Week leased the Clark mill and two or three years later purchased the plant of the North Side Lumber Co., which, though entirely rebuilt and modernized, is the same mill the Week company now operates.

Andrew Week attended the rural school in his home community during his boyhood and subsequently continued his education in the White-water Normal and the University of Wisconsin. He virtually grew up in the logging and lumbering business, so that when he reached young manhood he was amply qualified to assume a part of the responsibilities of his father's business. He came to Stevens Point in 1880 and from then until his death this city was his home continuously. The John Week Lumber Co., which is one of the oldest and most prominent concerns of its kind in Wisconsin, was incorporated in 1884, when Andrew Week was elected secretary and treasurer, in which capacity he served until his death.

Mr. Week was a member of the library board for many years, including the period in which the Carnegie library was erected. He was deeply interested in educational matters and for several years was a member of the board of education, which he also served as president. He was instrumental in organizing the Northwestern Hemlock Manufacturers Association, which has become an important factor in the lumbering industry, and the first meeting for formulating and defining rules for the uniform grading of hemlock was held in the offices of the John Week Lumber Co. in this city. He was the association's president for two years and for several years its treasurer. The presidency of the First National bank was bestowed upon him in 1893 and successfully each year since then. He assisted in the organization some fifteen years ago of the Coye Furniture Co. and was a member of the board of directors of that concern. He was secretary of the Stevens Point Boom Co., which in its years of existence has handled billions of feet of logs at the divide a short distance north of the city. Mr. Week also had business interests in Chicago and Spokane.

Mr. Week was affiliated with the Presbyterian church and was a generous contributor to that church society. He was trustee of Carroll college, (Presbyterian), of Waukesha. In Masonic circles he ranked high, having attained the thirty-second degree of that order and having served as eminent commander of Crusade Commandery No. 17, Knights Templar, of Stevens Point. He was also a member of the Shriner fraternity and of the Illinois Athletic club of Chicago. In politics Mr. Week ordinarily voted the Republican ticket, but he was exceedingly liberal in his views. His political influence, which was always wielded according to the dictates of his own judgment, was generally recognized. He was twice elected a member of the board of supervisors of Portage county.

Mr. Week's father, who was a leading figure in the development of the lumbering industry in Wisconsin, died June 4, 1891, and his mother on August 25, 1916. The surviving members of the immediate family are: Mrs. Theophilus Gribi, Hollywood, Cal.; N. A. Week, Stevens Point; Edmund R. Week, Spokane, Wash.; Miss Cora A. Week, New York; Miss Martha Week, who has been her brother's companion through life and was with him when death came, and Arthur J. Week, Hollywood, Cal. Eva C. Week, a sister of Andrew, died March 9, 1888, in the twenty-first year of her age.

A. R. Week was a direct descendant of Bishop Anders Anderson Riber of Eidfjord, Norway, who lived six generations before him. Bishop Riber came originally from Jylland, Denmark, and was a bishop of the Lutheran denomination. On a visit to Norway several years ago A. R. Week and Miss Martha Week visited the tomb of their illustrious ancestor.

Although his business interests were large, every detail of their conduct was within the grasp of Mr. Week, who was a tireless worker and a man of uncommon business sagacity and foresight. His resourcefulness is indicated by the fact that while a decade or more ago it was predicted that the days of the lumbering industry in central Wisconsin were numbered, the John Week Lumber Co. is today a strong, progressive institution, operating at full capacity season after season. Mr. Week traveled extensively and read much, a fact that made his personality not only pleasing but interesting. He was ever loyal to Wisconsin and up to the very last manifested a deep interest in the progress of his home city. He was "Andrew" to scores of friends in Stevens Point and his old friendships were nearest to his heart. He was democratic in spirit and liberal in his support of all worthy movements for the good of the city and its people, and history will mark him as a man who contributed much to the upbuilding of Stevens Point and central Wisconsin.

SIX WEEKS IN WEST

Mrs. N. Kaloschinske and Mrs. L. D. Kitowski returned last Thursday from a western trip of six weeks' duration. Mr. Kitowski, who also made the trip, returned home a few days earlier. Most of the time was spent by Mrs. Kaloschinske at the home of her son, Frank Ford, at Mukilteo, Wash., and with the latter's daughter, Mrs. Sharon, formerly Miss Margaret Ford, at Tacoma, while Mr. and Mrs. Kitowski also visited at Seattle and other points. On the return trip the party stopped at St. Marie, Idaho, for a visit with relatives.

START SIFTING OUT
PORTAGE COUNTY MEN*First Process in Selection of Initial Quota For New Army Completed Today

Portage county men summoned for the first draft for the conscript army are being examined at the court house, and the work of testing each man for physical defects, which was begun Monday morning, will be completed today. A total of 358 men, or double the required quota for the county, were called, and it is expected that nearly one half would be rejected on various grounds.

On Monday 104 were given the physical examination. Twenty-six out of that number were rejected on physical grounds. A number of men failed to appear for examination. On Tuesday 111 men were brought before the doctors. The number of those found physically unfit the second day ran higher than Monday, 38 failing to pass the required tests. The 38 men were re-examined Tuesday afternoon, making a total of 150 examinations yesterday. Although all of the men summoned Tuesday did not appear, every man was satisfactorily accounted for. The final group of men are being examined today.

The office of County Clerk Bourn, where claims for exemption are filed, has been literally swamped with men for three days, and it is estimated that fully two-thirds of the men passing the physical tests have filed claims.

Harold Ule of this city was the first man to go through in the county with a clean slate. He was pronounced physically fit by a physician and claimed no exemption.

A man found physically unfit by one physician is given a re-examination by another physician, the second doctor having no knowledge of the cause of rejection at the first examination. Several failed in their first tests, but came through successfully in the second, while in other cases the men were found physically unfit in both cases. The reports of both physicians, however, practically coincided in every case. The men who have failed in the physical tests, however, are not exempt until their individual cases have been acted upon by the board. The next work of the board will be to go over the list of those found unfit by the physicians. The men will then be notified as to the decision of the board in their individual case, and rejection certificates issued, which will be temporary or permanent.

THIS WEEK'S BAND CONCERT

A program of the band concert to be given at court house park Thursday evening is published below:

March—Field of Glory, Allen; Overture—Hungarian Comedy, Keler Bela; Fantasia—Auld Lang Syne, Hays; Trombone Solo—Memories, Alstyne, (Valentine Putz); Selection—Chin-Chin, Caryll; March—Peerless Triumphal, Perry; Finale—Star Spangled Banner, Key.

WILL TEACH IN EAST

Miss Celia Boyington, a graduate of the home economics department of Stevens Point Normal and who taught last year at Plainfield, will do private teaching work in the east the coming year. She will have a class of fifteen young ladies and will begin work at Princeton, N. J., in the fall. During the winter the class will be taken south, following which they will again be at Princeton. June and October will be vacation months and the summer will be spent in the Adirondacks. Miss Boyington's home is at Rockford, Ill., but she has many Stevens Point relatives and formerly lived here.

GUARDSMEN AT WORKMembers of New Militia Company
Getting Down to Business in Excellent Shape

Forty-nine members were present at the Wisconsin State Guard drill held in the armory Monday evening. The attendance was unusually good as the total number in the company is 53, but four being absent.

Foot movements were practiced under the direction of Capt. M. J. Goodsell, and the rifles belonging to the Normal school and used by Troop I before their departure to Camp Douglas, were given to a section of the company, that the men might become familiar with the handling of firearms.

A non-commissioned officers' school will be conducted this evening under the supervision of Capt. Goodsell. On Friday evening a regular drill will again be held. The organization is doing creditable work and interest in Stevens Point's only home military company is growing steadily, as shown by the desire of more than twenty-five more men to join. These men will be taken in as soon as the officers receive their commissions, which will give them the power to swear in the men.

GLIMPSES INTO PAST

Happenings Mentioned in The Gazette Twenty-Five and Ten Years Ago This Week. August 10, 1892

Vincent Prychla died at his home on 4th avenue last Friday of consumption. He was 30 years of age. His wife and two children survive.

Mrs. Ernestina Peickert, wife of John Peickert, died at her home on Franklin street, last evening. Mrs. Peickert was 53 years of age the 29th of last March. She leaves her husband and three children, Miss Edith, Otto and Amiel.

Dennis McGuire, an early day resident of this county, died at his home at Ogema, Price county, last Thursday and the remains arrived here Friday for burial. He was born in Ireland in 1810 and was therefore in the 82nd year of his age. Two daughters, Mrs. P. Collins and Mrs. B. F. Bowen reside in this city.

Anton Krembs, son of Alex. Krembs, is now the proud possessor of a fine gold watch, as is Miss Ollie Huntley, daughter of Fred Huntley, Jr. The latter part of June it was advertised that the boy and girl that sold the greatest number of Magnetic soap by Aug. 1st would each be presented with a handsome gold watch. Anton disposed of 755 bars and Miss Ollie sold 525 bars. Fred Thoms also made a good effort, selling 430 bars.

A jolly party of Stevens Pointers consisting of Dr. Trimble, Mr. and Mrs. A. W. Sanborn, Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Holt, Mr. and Mrs. N. A. Week, Misses Ada Walker and Ethel Kirwan, A. R. Week, Price Road, John Reton and Frank Bosworth took the evening train on Saturday last for Marshfield. All had taken their bicycles and from Marshfield they rode to McMillan, where Mr. and Mrs. B. F. McMillan had prepared a reception for them.

Ten Years Ago Aug. 7, 1907 Mrs. J. L. Jensen and little daughter Merna came up from Chicago last Friday to visit their husband and father for a few days.

There was a quiet but pretty wedding at the Baptist parsonage, last evening when Rev. James Blake joined in matrimony Chas. W. Pier and Miss Grace Wollenschlaeger.

Miss Eva Charlesworth entertained about twenty-five girl and boy friends at her home on Normal avenue last Monday evening, it being the sixteenth anniversary of her birth.

A double wedding took place at St. Peter's church this morning when Frank Okray was joined in matrimony to Miss Verona Helmski, and Mike Helmski wedded Miss Rose Chowske.

O. H. P. Bigelow died at the residence of his son, Geo. W. Bigelow on Briggs street, Tuesday evening. Mr. Bigelow was 84 years of age. Those who survive are one daughter, Mrs. S. M. Halliday of Portland, Ore., one son, George W. Bigelow of this city.

John Lutz, a resident of Stevens Point for 33 years, died at his home on Elk street, this morning, aged 73 years. The surviving members of the family are the widow and six children, Chas. Lutz of Milwaukee, Mrs. Robt. Dauber and Albert Lutz of Oshkosh, Mrs. Geo. B. Oertel, Mrs. Wm. Manthey and Robt. J. Lutz of this city.

CHANGES VOCATION Milton Griffin, for the past several months one of the expert workmen at Berens' barber shop, gave up his position last Saturday night to take up railroad work as a passenger brakeman. His run will be between Stevens Point and Minneapolis and he made his initial trip on train No. 3 Sunday night.

VISITING IN MINNESOTA O. Holmes, one of the Soo company's retired engineers, went to Marshfield last Friday evening for a brief visit at the home of his daughter, Mrs. H. B. Huber. Mr. Holmes and Mrs. Huber left on the limited train that night for Albert Lea, Minn., to spend several days among relatives. A nephew and cousin is a member of the Minnesota national guard and expects to leave this week for war service.

INJURED IN COLLISION Mrs. Marie Shaurette met with painful injuries last Thursday morning, when she was thrown from a motorcycle on S. Church street. Her son, Howard Dake, was driving the machine and she was sitting on an extension seat in the rear, when they struck and killed a dog, the force of the collision throwing mother and son to the ground. Mrs. Shaurette suffered bruises to her arms, shoulders, feet, head and one eye. The young man was but slightly bruised.

A LIVE WIRE BUNCH Stevens Point Cavalry Troop I, stationed at Camp Douglas, have already won the reputation of being the "live" company of soldiers in the tent city. Since their arrival at the camp a little over two weeks ago, they have kept things moving to say the least, and have been the promoters of several practical jokes. Immediately upon their arrival, they informed other companies that before leaving the Point, they had enlisted the strongest man in the state, and that he could "handle" any three men in Camp Douglas. As their hero they exhibited George Spredd, a private in Troop I, and invited any three men to test their strength on the giant. Men in three were not lacking and were taken to a tent, escorted by several local troopers, where they were seized and tied securely with ropes. They were then initiated to several pails of cold water by Spredd, assisted by others in the troop. It is reported that large numbers of men appeared in three, all eager to show their superiority over Stevens Point's strong man. A lieutenant in Co. B, Milwaukee, was one of the men taken for a private and introduced to the joke. Spredd, who spent Sunday and Monday in this city, stated that officers made little difference, and added, "We treat them all alike."

Be Sure to Attend —the next— MONTHLY STOCK FAIR On Public Square, Stevens Point, Wis. THURSDAY, AUG. 16th, 1917 Bring in ANYTHING you have to sell; you will find a market. A competent auctioneer will be in attendance.

RETAILERS TO MEET

The annual convention of the Wisconsin Retail Grocers and General Merchants association will be held at Wausau August 13, 14 and 15. The Stevens Point Retailers association will have a delegation in attendance. Wausau is making plans for a big welcome for the visitors from all over the state.

KELLY ASSIGNED TO SHIP

P. H. Kelly, U. S. navy recruiting officer who has visited Stevens Point frequently, has been transferred from his headquarters at Wausau to New York city, where he will be assigned to duty aboard the liner, Koenig Wilhelm II, an interned German vessel which has been put into service in the U. S. navy.

HALL IS PATRIOTIC

Wild Rose Times: Don C. Hall, with his company, departed with his two private cars, on Wednesday, for Nekeos. The company played several nights in the opera house but owing to the excessive warm weather was not greeted with very large audiences. Mr. Hall is very patriotic and believes in doing his bit. While here, seeing the farmers' need of help to preserve their crops, Mr. Hall and his party put in 14 days work amongst the farmers, which proves Mr. Hall is sincere in what he preaches.

WORKING FOR BIG CONCERN

E. H. Anschuetz, who is now employed as machinist for the Manitowoc ship building company, came over from the eastern Wisconsin city last Saturday and visited his family until the following night. This corporation employs upwards of 3,000 men and turns out some immense boats for lake and ocean traffic. They are now at work on a couple of liners for the Norwegian government, both of which are nearly completed. While the ship building concern is the biggest institution in Manitowoc, there are two aluminum goods factories there which employ upwards of one thousand hands each. Excellent wages are paid and the town is exceptionally prosperous.

NAVY'S ALL RIGHT

So Says Walter J. Stewart, Stevens Point Boy, in Interesting Letter to The Gazette

"I received The Gazette yesterday and it sure was full of news," said Walter J. Stewart, musician on the U. S. S. North Carolina, in a letter written under date of July 28. "I have the comforts of home when I light my old pipe and read the good old home paper."

"Was more than glad to hear that Stevens Point gave the Troop such a royal send-off as they sure deserved it. I consider myself lucky for the move I made. I am greatly satisfied in every way. I sure have moved around some in my short time of enlistment, seeing sights I never expected to see in my life. Our grub is good and plentiful, which is an important factor in my case. I had my rating raised to second class, increasing my pay from $32 to $41. We play for colors every morning and evening, after which we give concerts. Most every evening while at anchor we have up-to-date moving pictures with concert, and on Friday nights we have 'Happy Hour.' We have shore liberty from 4 o'clock this afternoon until 8 tomorrow morning. We are allowed to sleep until 6 o'clock Sunday morning to have a fine bandmaster over us, a gentleman in every respect, and all the fellows are more than pleased with him. He has more patience than I ever thought existed."

A program of the "Happy Hour" was inclosed, the stunts listed being a pole fight and five boxing bouts. The band played during the program. "Walt" also sent his parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Stewart, a fine large picture of the North Carolina. His letter was marked "Passed by Censor." What information he can write home is necessarily limited. "I could tell you many things, but I am not at liberty to do so," especially in these times," he said.

PRRAISE STATE TROOPS

Federal Army Officers Pleased With Units at Camp Douglas

Adj. Gen. Holway has received many strong endorsements from federal army officers on the strength and condition of the Wisconsin National guard. Statements of army officers are uniformly to the effect that no other state in the union has done more toward placing its guard in a position to meet the war emergency than has Wisconsin.

Gen. Thomas H. Barry of the Department of the Lakes, United States army, who made an official call on Gov. Philipp, en route from Camp Douglas to Chicago, reiterated the expression of satisfaction and told the governor that everyone was satisfied with what Wisconsin has accomplished.

Gen. Berry made only a short visit to Madison, but while there had a formal conference with the governor and with Adj. Gen. Holway. Gen. Barry was accompanied by President R. H. Ashton of the Chicago and North-western road. Gen. Holway in talking with President Ashton, expressed his satisfaction at the way in which the railroads had met the emergencies occasioned by the movement of troops.

Gen. Holway says conditions at Camp Douglas are fast becoming army-like, and that no difficulty will be experienced in having all troops which are mobilized there well equipped before they start south.

The government shipments of equipment have been rushed to the Wisconsin guard, and the regiments are fast assuming a correct military appearance. The fact that so many companies in the Wisconsin guard have been service at the Mexican border and are practically seasoned troops is of great aid in rounding the National guard units of Wisconsin into shape. Nearly all the recruits also in the regiments which were in service before the war, have received military training since they joined the guard. The work of training the new regiments also is progressing very fast.

IS REAL OIL REGION

Paul Neumann, who recently moved from Bartlesville, Okla., to Eldorado, Kas., with his family, is still in the midst of oil fields. In a letter to the Gazette he said: "This is some busy oil town, and no wonder when they strike wells making from 14,000 to 20,000 barrels a day. I sent my old friend John Schmitt a couple of photos of one well making 14,000 barrels, and it sure looks good, but would look better if I had a small interest in it myself."

HOME FROM THE WEST

Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Jakway returned last Thursday night from a month's visit through the west. They went out via the Northern Pacific railroad, stopping at Spokane and Portland, and on the homeward journey spent several days at Salt Lake City and Denver. The hot weather recently experienced here was more intense in the southwest, thermometers registering 110 and 115 degrees in the shade through portions of Kansas and Nebraska. Although the Stevens Pointers saw much good country and had a very enjoyable trip, yet they are glad to get back to Wisconsin, the best state in the Union.

BUILD AUXILIARY PLANT

Wausau Record-Herald: Work on the addition of the steam auxiliary plant of the Wisconsin Valley Electric company in this city has been commenced. Materials are being unloaded on the grounds of the company on Clarke Island, a crew of men is engaged in excavating along the Wisconsin river front for the retaining wall and a number have started the excavation work for the basement. The addition, together with the machinery that is to be installed, will cost about $70,000 and will give the company power despite extreme high water, breakdowns of the water power service or any other accident to the water plant.

HAD DELIGHTFUL VISIT

Prof. and Mrs. O. W. Neale, who spent part of last week at Great Lakes Ill., visiting their son Glenn at the training station there, are enthusiastic over the work being done in behalf of the prospective navy men, of whom there are 11,000 taking the required drills and instructions. The sanitary condition of the immense field is truly marvelous, everything being kept absolutely clean. Mr. and Mrs. Neale also spent a day at Fort Sheridan, where 7,000 are taking the officers' training course. H. A. Beglinger, a recent graduate of the local Normal, will get a lieutenant's commission, and it is possible that one or two other Stevens Point boys may be similarly awarded.

POTATO WORM APPEARS

Fond du Lac Reporter: A new variety of potato pest is worrying residents of the west side who have large plots of ground given up to tubers this year.

The pest, according to one man who has had a considerable number of his plants spoiled, is a worm about an inch or an inch and a half long. The worm does not attack the potatoes themselves, but the potato plants. It usually starts near the top of the plant and eats its way downward through the center, often going clear to the roots. The plants wither up and die. The worms have spread rapidly this year according to this gardener. He says that he first noticed them two years ago, when only a very few were to be seen. Last year there were more and this year there is an unusual number of the pests. According to reports, they are spread fairly thoroughly over the west side gardens. The matter will be taken up with R. V. Gunn, emergency food expert. The local potato growers don't know what the pest is, and are planning to turn to the state agricultural authorities for assistance in eradicating the worm.

The potato crop of the northwest section of Wisconsin this year will exceed all war "bumper" expectations. This is indicated by reports of agriculturists returning from that country. New potatoes from some localities are already on the market.

Announcement has been made by the board of normal regents that President Crabtree of the River Falls normal school has filed his resignation to take effect Sept. 1. President Crabtree will take the position of secretary to the National Educational association.

Dr. Wilbur O. Carrier has resigned as president of Carroll college, Waukegan, to accept the post of superintendent of the church extension board of the United States of the Presbyterian church. He will assume his new duties Sept. 1, and will establish headquarters in Chicago.

Grief was turned into great rejoicing at Kenosha when a telegram was received from Des Moines, Ia., telling how John Zura, a young Kenosha student at the Moody Bible college there, supposed to be drowned while bathing in the Des Moines river, had been found alive and well.

Arthur Wells, 14, after admitting to District Attorney Catlin that he had been smoking cigarettes in the yards of the Ideal Lumber Company's plant prior to a fire which practically destroyed the plant, was sentenced to four years in the Waukegan Industrial School by Judge Spencer at Appleton.

At a meeting of the stockholders of the German American bank at Milwaukee the corporate name of the institution was changed to the American Exchange bank. The action was taken by a unanimous vote. The bank officials issued the following statement: "The change was made in response to urgent requests submitted by the customers and stockholders of the bank."

Firing a volley over the heads of Workers of the World at Superior a patrol of bluejackets from the United States Yantic rescued a patrolman and his prisoner in time to save the officer from serious injury, with the man still in his custody. Reinforcements called from the ship, docked not far distant, succeeded in dispersing a threatening crowd without further clash. An officer returning to the Yantic saw two robbers going through a drunken man asleep in a yard and called two policemen, who were set upon by the I. W. W. when they arrested the suspects.

The silo building campaign waged by the college of agriculture and the county councils of defense in all but a few counties with small corn acreages is resulting in a widespread movement to conserve this year's corn crop. According to reports received from agricultural representatives and emergency food agents in various sections of the state, Wisconsin farmers are doing much this year to increase their lead in silo building. Some predict that Wisconsin's present quota of 60,000 silos or one to every third farm, will be greatly increased over the ratio of any previous year. Some of the more optimistic are even daring to hope for 75,000 silos before the end of 1918.

The local machinery by which the commission form of government in Appleton can be abolished was put in motion at a mass meeting. The general opinion was that the commission form of government had proved unsatisfactory, and petitions will be circulated immediately for signatures. If enough signatures are secured a special election will be held in the near future. This movement is the outgrowth of the appointment of Chief of Police Prim, who was appointed by the city commission in violation of the state law which demands that any police officer or sheriff must be a citizen of the state for at least a year. Prim was brought from Chicago where he had been on the police force for a number of years up to 1915.

GUESS WHO THEY ARE SHIPPERS CAN HELP

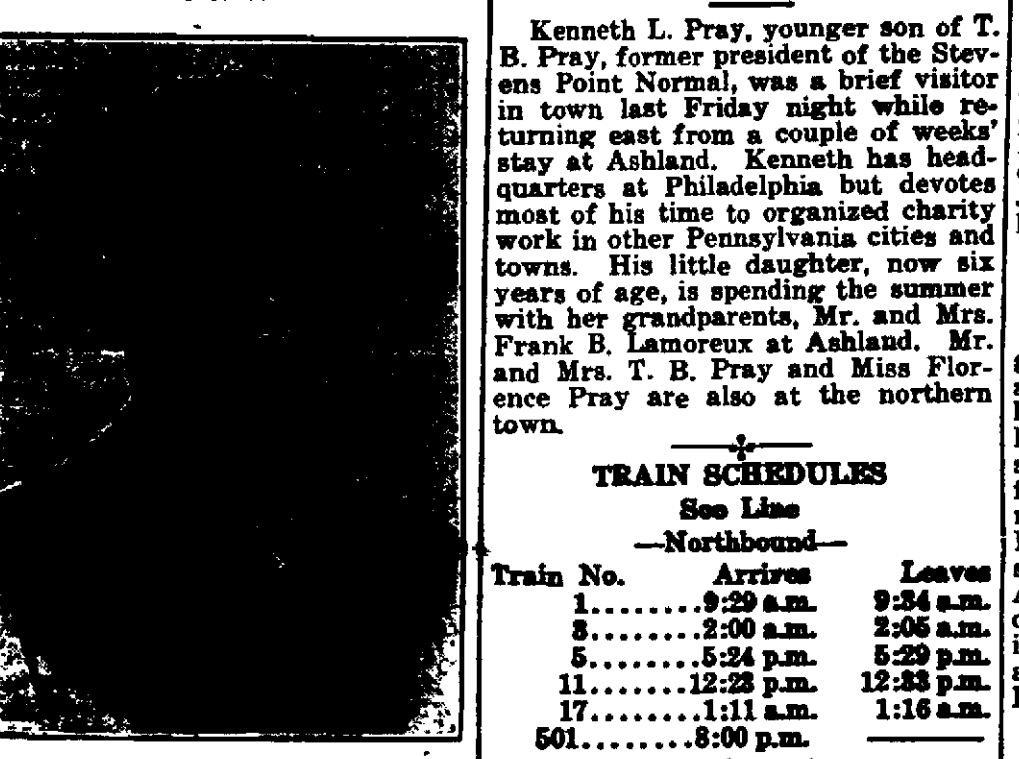

Reproduction of Pictures Printed in The Gazette Within Past Several Years.

Guess Who They Are— The bright looking young lady pictured in this column last week showed a likeness of Agnes Finnessy, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Thos. Finnessy of Stockton. Agnes came into prominence in 1915 through her ability in the county spelling contest, where she was awarded a first prize.

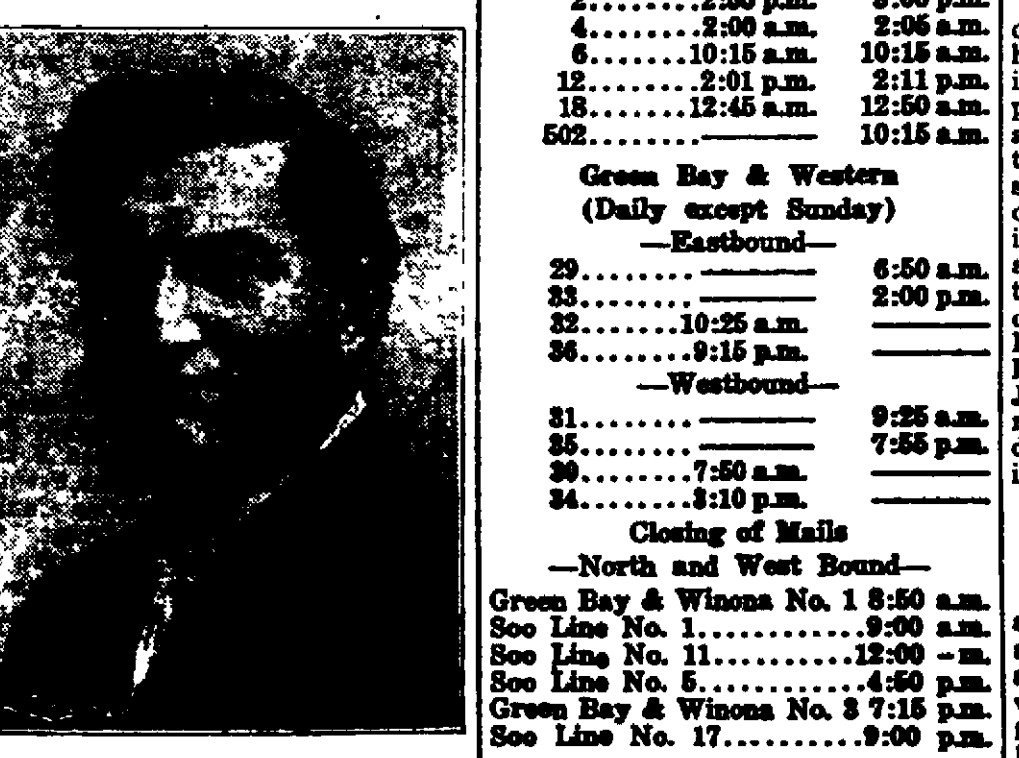

The oval cut, labeled No. 77, is a fairly good likeness of Prof. Frank J. Steckel, supervisor of manual training at the Stevens Point High school, and the lower picture was that of Hon. WANT ELECTRIC LIGHTS? James Mainland Has Agency for Practical and Efficient Systems for Farm Homes

James Mainland, for twelve years superintendent of the Stevens Point Lighting Co., prior to the sale of the company's interests to the Wisconsin Valley Electric Co., is back in the electric lighting game.

Mr. Mainland has gone into the business of installing private electric lighting plants, made especially for farm homes. He has the agency for several well known systems, but will specialize on "The Guaranteed," for which he has the agency in territory tributary to Stevens Point. Lighting plants are common on farms in southern Wisconsin and many other well developed sections, being used not only to light homes, but in barns and other buildings as well. Central Wisconsin farmers have shown a disposition to install modern conveniences and it is believed the idea of a safe, simple, dependable and economical electric lighting system will appeal to them strongly, especially this year, when prospects of a bountiful potato crop and high prices are so rood.

Mr. Mainland has done some preliminary work preparatory to making a canvass of the field, but just now he is too busy farming to devote much time to his new business. He is in charge of the F. H. Huntley farm in Buena Vista, as noted in last week's Gazette, and expects to remain there until Mr. Huntley, who had his hip broken recently in a fall, is able to engage the services of a permanent farm manager.

Public Can Be Potent Factor in Relieving Freight Congestion Incident to War

Shippers and receivers of freight can be a potent factor in winning the war by their untended co-operation with the railroads. This, in substance, is the conclusion reached as a result of investigations being conducted by the Railroads' War Board, according to George W. Murnane, secretary of the Twin City Sub-Committee, which is endeavoring to keep traffic moving normally in the northwest.

"Shippers can aid immensely in the work," Mr. Murnane said, "by loading cars to capacity, by giving definite instructions to agents at various points, and by getting bills of lading to stations early enough so movement of cars will not be delayed. Their efforts in loading quickly after cars are spotted will also be of benefit."

"Receivers can do their part by unloading cars as soon as possible after they are received, thereby releasing this equipment for the hauling of other traffic. The lack of sufficient freight cars to care for the increased traffic incident to the war really render this co-operation necessary."

With this co-operation the railroad managers feel that their efforts to keep traffic moving regularly will result in solving the transportation problem. Without it their almost superhuman efforts to aid the government and the public in the movement of supplies and the necessities of life may not produce the desired efficiency.

LOST PART OF FINGER

George, Jr., the 22-months old son of Prof. and Mrs. George D. Corneal of this city, lost a part of the third finger of his right hand in an accident at Sioux City, Ia., recently. Mrs. Corneal and son, with her mother, Mrs. William Abbott, were on their way to the latter's home at Tyndall, S. Dak., and stopped off at Sioux City, for a visit with a sister of Mrs. Corneal. While at the sister's home the little boy's hand was caught in a door and the finger so badly crushed that amputation at the first joint was necessary. Mrs. Corneal and son are now at Tyndall, where they will visit for a time.

DOING CHARITY WORK

Kenneth L. Pray, younger son of T. B. Pray, former president of the Stevens Point Normal, was a brief visitor in town last Friday night while returning east from a couple of weeks' stay at Ashland. Kenneth has headquarters at Philadelphia but devotes most of his time to organized charity work in other Pennsylvania cities and towns. His little daughter, now six years of age, is spending the summer with her grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Frank B. Lamoreux at Ashland. Mr. and Mrs. T. B. Pray and Miss Florence Pray are also at the northern town.

IN RHINELANDER GUARDS

Among the members of Co. L, the Rhinelander unit of national guards now stationed at Camp Douglas, are the following young men whose parents were former residents of this city or county: Theodore Schliesmann, Isador Bronk, Geo. Sutton, Lyle Guilday, Leslie Merryfield and Wm. Shaffer. Wm. J. Demmerly, son of John Demmerly of McDill, and Wm. Mischnik, whose parents are Mr. and Mrs. John Mischnick of Eau Claire, also belong to Co. L.

ORGANIZED LOCAL SCHOOL

Miss Gertrude VanAdestine, who organized the local school for the deaf and taught here four years, visited last Saturday night and Sunday with Mrs. John W. Glennon. Miss VanAdestine had been spending a week at her former home near Manawa. She is now supervisor of the deaf schools in Detroit, and also conducts a private studio for the teaching of lip reading. A portion of the summer vacation was devoted to a trip through Colorado, including stops at Colorado Springs and Denver and the ascent of Pike's Peak.

SCHOOL COMMITTEE MEETS

The committee on common schools of Portage county met at the court house Monday in an adjourned meeting from July 17. The committee has practically completed the making of a map of Portage county school districts, which shows the boundaries of school districts and the main highways of the county. The map will be kept in the office of Supt. L. A. Gordon and corrections made to it from time to time. The committee is composed of the following members: Lyman Freecourt, Plover, chairman; Mrs. C. E. Shortell of this city, secretary, and John Marchel of Eau Claire. At the request of the committee, Supt. Gordon and Miss Tascher, clerk, assisted in the work of the committee.

BUY SEYMOUR COTTAGE

Mrs. Zella Rothman of this city has purchased one of the Seymour cottages at Lake Emily from Mrs. Seymour of Green Bay. The deal includes the building and contents but not the ground upon which the cottage is built. Mrs. Rothman and two daughters have been camping in the cottage at Lake Emily for the last two weeks.

HAVE PERFECT RECORD

Lela Margaret Williams and Robert Edgar Williams, pupils in school district No. 8, Pine Grove, were on Monday awarded certificates of perfect attendance by County Supt. L. A. Gordon. Both pupils held a perfect attendance record in school for the last three years. Miss Mabel Nicholson of this city is the teacher in district 8.

BUYS THOROUGHbred CALF

H. H. Clark & Sons, who own Maple Grove stock farm in Linwood township, has just added to their herd of registered Holstein cattle by the receipt of a nine months old bull calf weighing 570 pounds. They paid $125 for the animal to F. J. Bristol, a prominent breeder at Oakfield, Fond du Lac county. Messrs. Clark are convinced that it pays to raise high grade stock.

DEEP GASH IN HAND

R. E. Newby, the Arnott machinery dealer and automobile man, was painfully hurt in this city last Monday morning. The number plate on an automobile had been placed in such position that it barely gave opportunity for "cranking" the machine and in attempting to turn the handle, Mr. Newby's right hand struck the sharp edge of the plate, cutting a deep gash across the palm. It bled profusely and required four stitches to close. He will be unable to use the member for several days.

Col. Henry Watterson, the noted editor of the Louisville Courier-Journal, now has a different view of Wisconsin than reflected in an editorial he recently published. In response to a statement of facts by Gov. E. L. Philipp, Mr. Watterson came out with the following apologetic editorial admitting that reports of Wisconsin's disloyalty are without foundation:

The Courier-Journal recently made some remarks on the results of recruiting our army which were not complimentary to Wisconsin, the figures on which these remarks were based showing a decided discrepancy comparatively between Wisconsin's recruits and those of several of her neighbors. And as bearing on this showing this paragraph from the Chicago Journal was quoted:

"Wisconsin made a magnificent record in the Civil war, but she is ruining it now. Her troops were a tower of strength more than one battlefield where the Union was at stake, but her statesmen are a sink-hole of weakness in the greater struggle of today. Her low recruiting record is a logical consequence of the seditious propaganda which has prevailed within her boundaries, not merely unchecked but countenanced and led by her most conspicuous politicians."

Gov. Philipp, of Wisconsin, takes exceptions to this and writes that we have done his state a serious injustice, submitting some official figures of the war department showing that Wisconsin's percentage of volunteers is a handsome one, greater than the percentages of several states, Kentucky among them—with which it would be fair to make comparison. The Courier-Journal notes this with pleasure. The figures quoted in the article against which the governor protests do not embrace, as they should have done, the volunteers in the National Guard, covering only the recruits in the regular army.

As such, on their face, they were not by comparison with other states at all complimentary to Wisconsin. The Courier-Journal cheerfully admits however, that cited alone without reference to Wisconsin's contribution of volunteers they were open to a construction unjust to the state, and it is hardly less gratified than if it were a citizen of Wisconsin to know how fine is that state's record of volunteers in the National Guard.

"The error that you have fallen into," writes Gov. Philipp, "is that you have not taken into account the number who have volunteered in our National Guard. Our regular army enlistment on the same date shows 1,588 men, while our National Guard enlistment is 13,685 on the same date. The reason for this is that our National Guard is a popular organization and our young men have preferred to enlist in it rather than the regular army. This despite the fact that the term of enlistment in the Guard is six years, while regular army enlistments have been for as low as one year."

Commenting on criticisms of Wisconsin's apparent lack of patriotism Gov. Philipp adds:

"I wish to inquire in what respect has this state failed to respond to the demands of the National government? We obtained a full registration on June 5, the date set by the war department, and registered 106.3 per cent of the census bureau's estimate. A search of the state has been made, and not over ten persons found who failed to do their duty in the matter of registration, and a number of those brought before the court were found to be feeble-minded. The state was among the first to report its registration as it was among the first to report the results of the second step in the draft operation."

"This was the first state in the union to establish a Defense Council by law, and organized a branch in every county in the state, all for the purpose of organizing the people in the interest of the war. The state oversubscribed the Liberty Loan by approximately a half a million dollars, and it gave nearly half a million dollars more than its quota to the Red Cross society. In fact, every demand made by the government has been met promptly and without a murmur, and I predict that Wisconsin will be among the first to offer its drafted army to the United States government."

Well and forcibly put. Would that the governor could as effectively parry the criticism of Wisconsin's responsibility for La Follette. It was that responsibility which was discussed by most of the article to which Gov. Philipp objects, and of this he has not a word to say. The Courier-Journal appreciates his silence. It does not doubt that as a patriotic American and loyal citizen of Wisconsin he disapproves of La Follette as much as anybody does. No doubt if the people of Wisconsin had the opportunity they would kick him overboard without ceremony, but as long as he is allowed to sit as their representative in the senate their state will be subject to such displeasing misconstruction as that which provoked Gov. Philipp's protest.

If you cannot fight at the front, you can send a book to the man you are sending to the front to do your fighting for you. The government has asked the American Library association to assume responsibility for supplying the camps and cantonments with reading material. Every group of soldiers, small as well as large, is to have books. The Public Library in this city has been asked to get donations of books and magazines in this vicinity. These will be sent to the various camps and cantonments throughout the country and will be made available to soldiers, either directly or through the chaplains of the army, the Y. M. C. A., the Knights of Columbus, and every other welfare agency at work in the camps. If there is a Y. M. C. A. building, a Knights of Columbus building, a Masonic building, or any other building or tent, whether it be manned by Catholics or Protestants, Jews or Gentiles, these books will be sent to them. The library association itself is of course nonsectarian and it will cooperate harmoniously with all other organizations.

If you will write in each book your name and address, the soldiers who read it will know that someone in Stevens Point is his friend and stands ready to help him.

The following is suggested as to the books and magazines desired: Poorly printed, uninteresting, obviously out-of-date books are not worth shipping to the men. Type should be good and clear and the books in fair condition.

Books of good stories will be wanted most, books of adventure, sea stories, detective stories, historical novels and collections of short stories, especially humorous ones. Such authors as Kipling, Doyle, McCutcheon, O. Henry, Stockton, Bindloss, Parrish, Tarkington, Hopkinson, Oppenheim, etc., have been found popular authors with men. Good poetry and drama can be utilized.

All the men must be helped by these libraries. Some of them have not established reading habits. Some of the books must therefore be light and easily read.

Foreign language study books especially French grammar and dictionaries, are much needed—possibly more than any other non-fiction books. In one camp nearly one-fifth of the men are studying French. They should have easy readers and stories besides their text books.

Books of travel, biography and history, especially lives of heroes and travels in the countries at war.

Technical books on aviation, wireless, telegraphy, submarines, automobiles, signalling, first aid and hygiene, drawing and lettering.

Ethical books on patriotism, courage, good citizenship, with simple nonsectarian devotional books.

Fresh attractive magazines are also desired—such as American, Century, Harper's, Everybody's, Popular Mechanics, Popular Science Monthly, Scientific American, Saturday Evening Post, etc. None over two years old should be included.

The material is needed at once. Why not select today the books you are willing to give? Do not give worthless, unattractive books, but some of your fresh, good, interesting, and valuable ones.

Send the books and magazines to the Public Library any day of the week but Sunday and do not wait to do it.

HOW TO MAKE ECONOMY CLUB INTERESTING.

It all came about while four housekeepers were talking over the extravagance and work connected with entertaining and how the true spirit of hospitality seemed to have been overlooked in the mad rush and endeavor of each hostess to have a little more or things a little different in comparison with others.

Then it was agreed that each one would give a luncheon, the cost for the four not to exceed a dollar; that they would wear wash gowns not to exceed $2 in cost—that is, the material—and that they would bring their sewing, while one of the number would read aloud for an hour, and each one was to tell some current news item or interesting incident. Good. In the strict sense of the word, was to be taboed, and meetings were to be held once in two weeks. This is certainly a step in the right direction. Would there were more economy clubs!

Very Suitable.

Short and Long Twilight.

As twilight is caused by the refraction of the atmosphere, without which we should be instantly in darkness at sunset, all parts of the earth have twilight, though of varying duration. When the sun has sunk eighteen degrees below the horizon no more light can be refracted anywhere, but the path of the sun at the equator is so nearly vertical that its disappearance is proportionately rapid.

The shortest twilight at the equator is one hour and twelve minutes at the equinoxes in March and September; the longest is one hour and nineteen minutes at the solstices in June and December.

In London from May 22 to July 21 it is twilight all through the night. Farther north still, in the Shetlands and Norway, we speak of the midnight sun, where men never lose sight of the orb of day and twilight is unknown.—London Telegraph.

Picric Acid For Burns.

A well tried remedy for burns, used much before the advent of the paraffin treatment, says the Medical Record, is picric acid, to be employed in the following manner: Picric acid, two drams; alcohol, 2½ ounces; distilled water, a quart. The burn is first cleansed of dirt and charred clothing, then strips of sterilized gauze soaked in the above solution are applied to the part.

An absorbent cotton pad is placed over the dressing and lightly bandaged to place. The dressing dries rapidly and may be left in position for several days, after which it is again moistened with the solution to soften it, removed, and a fresh dressing is applied and left on for a week. All blisters should be pricked.

The treatment causes pain at first, which later disappears, and the wound heals in a smooth cicatrix.

Worry Is Imagination.

We worry because we are able through a power called self consciousness to place ourselves through our minds for the time being either back somewhere in the past without carrying our physical bodies with us, or if we could take our bodies with us we would be in the present again, and then worry is impossible; or, we use our imagination and project the future entirely apart from our bodies, for we cannot project our bodies into the future, and if we could we would again be in the present, says the "Book of Wonders." We worry over going to have an operation performed, which may or may not be dangerous, but quite necessary. We may still think we worry when the operation begins, but as soon as that occurs the time becomes the present, and though we may fear, we cannot worry in the present.

His Logic.

"We could get along very well without lawyers," proclaimed the radical. "I consider lawyers nothing but parasites on the body politic."

The attorney sneered. "Your theory on this subject is like your theories on all other subjects," he said. "You presuppose a model state of society. In a model state we should need no lawyers, but at present society is imperfect. Therefore, lawyers are a necessity."

"I expected you to say that," said the radical. "Will you stick to it that a lawyer is a necessity and accept all the consequences of that statement?"

"Yes."

"Out of your own mouth I condemn you. Necessity knows no law!"—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

A Test Required.

"Johnny, it was very wrong for you and the boy next door to fight."

"We couldn't help it, father."

"Could you not have settled your differences by a peaceful discussion of the matter, calling in the assistance of unprejudiced opinion, if need be?"

"No, father. He was sure he could whip me and I was sure I could whip him, and there was only one way to find out."—Washington Star.

Truth.

We are born to inquire after truth. It belongs to a greater power to possess it. It is not, as Democritus said, hid in the bottom of the deeps, but rather elevated to an infinite height in the divine knowledge.—Michael de Montaigne.

PRACTICAL HEALTH HINT.

Children's Headaches.

"Children," says a noted English physician, "have no business with headaches, and if these occur frequently at any school there is something evidently wrong there. The headache girl is not unlikely to grow up an invalid woman, and the unstable mental state may develop into epilepsy." Few parents are fully alive to the importance of recognizing the signs of nervous breakdown in children during the school period and of taking steps to prevent injuries through overstudy and the anxiety that frequently accompanies study, especially during the high school period. It is better to consult a physician before it becomes necessary to discontinue the school work. It is more important that athletic exercises and games that will relieve the mental strain of severe study be provided for girls than for boys in the high school period.

SOCIAL HAPPENINGS of INTEREST

The marriage of Miss Katherine Alexander of Wausau, who has been a frequent visitor at the home of her aunt, Mrs. John Reton, in Stevens Point, and who has a personal acquaintance here, was recorded as follows in the Wausau Record-Herald of last Wednesday:

Miss Katherine Alexander, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Hugh Alexander, 631 Grand avenue, and John J. Powers of Detroit, Michigan, were married at a seven o'clock nuptial mass at St. James' Catholic church this morning. The service was read by Rev. Father O'Toole in the presence of a large number of relatives and friends.

The bride wore a simple gown of white georgette crepe with picture hat to match. She was attended by her sister, Mrs. E. P. Gorman, who was groomed in pink georgette. E. P. Gorman attended Mr. Powers.

Following the wedding service a wedding breakfast was served to the bridal party and the immediate family at the Bellis Hotel, and later Mr. and Mrs. Powers left for a short honeymoon trip to the lakes in the northern part of the state. They will make their home in Detroit, where Mr. Powers is employed by the Ford Motor company.

The marriage of Miss Emma Brown and Leonard Eastman took place at the home of the bride's parents at Junction City at 4 o'clock Sunday afternoon, Rev. B. O. Richter, pastor of the German Lutheran church of Amherst, officiating. The attendants were Miss Nora Eastman, a sister of the groom, as bridesmaid, and Ed. Bohn as best man. A large company of relatives and friends were guests at a supper in honor of the newly married couple, who went to Wild Rose Monday to reside on a farm. George Auguste and Miss Lydia Eastman of this city and Mr. and Mrs. Roy Brooks of Wild Rose were among those who attended the wedding.

Ralph Friday, private in Cavalry Troop 1 at Camp Douglas, was granted a forty-eight hour furlough from his martial duties last week and came home Thursday for the occasion of his own wedding. At the court house Thursday evening, when Weber's band was giving its weekly concert on the adjacent lawn, he was united in marriage to Miss Eveline Gollon, the ceremony being performed by Judge J. A. Murat. The attendants were County Clerk A. E. Bourn and Miss Anna Gollon. A special dispensation was granted Friday by Judge Murat as he had to report to camp the following day. Mrs. Friday is a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Gollon of the town of Hull and the groom a son of Mrs. Agnes Friday of this city. Men sworn into federal service cannot wear civilian clothes until they are dismissed from service, and accordingly Friday was attired in his uniform when the ceremony was performed, giving it a thoroughly military aspect.

Miss Marjorie Boston entertained several girl friends informally at her home Monday afternoon in honor of her guest, Miss Hazel Menier of Wausau.

Fifteen young ladies were guests of Mrs. J. N. Peickert at a 5:30 o'clock tea given by her complimentary to Miss Kathryn Glennon last Thursday afternoon at the Peickert home, 1103 Main street. Out of town guests were Misses Hazel Menier of Wausau, and Kathryn Popham and Helen Taffe of Chicago.

The marriage of Miss Kathryn J. Glennon and Guy W. Rogers will occur next Saturday, August 11. Miss Glennon was given a miscellaneous shower on Monday evening by Misses Grace and Bernice Cauley at their home, 307 Pine street. There were twenty guests, who were entertained at "hearts," first prize being won by Miss Grace McCallum and the won by Miss Grace McCallum and the other prize Evans of Fond du Lac. Other out of town guests besides Miss Evans were Mrs. H. Johnson of Vicksburg, Mich., Miss Maria Rowell of Waukesha and Miss Aileen O'Connor of Oshkosh.

Miss Mildred Fishleigh entertained a small company of young ladies at her home on Ellis street Tuesday afternoon in compliment to her guest, Miss Maria Rowell of Waukesha.

Members of the Ladies Auxiliary to the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers participated in a picnic on the banks of the Plover river last Thursday afternoon.

The marriage of Miss Katherine Helinski of this city and Stanley Paprocki of Milwaukee took place at St. Peter's Catholic church in this city Tuesday morning, Rev. A. Malcowski officiating. The Misses Lucy Helinski, Constance Paprocki and Regina Zylka and Frank Helinski and Michael Check were the attendants. Mr. and Mrs. Paprocki departed in the afternoon for Milwaukee, where they will reside at 805 9th street. Mr. Paprocki is in the employ of the Northern Glass Works in Milwaukee. Mrs. Paprocki's large circle of friends in Stevens Point will wish her much good fortune and happiness.

Mr. and Mrs. Earl Schilling of Minocqua were guests over Sunday at the home of his grandmother, Mrs. Caroline Schilling, Boyington avenue. They were on their wedding trip and came here by automobile following the marriage Saturday. Mr. Schilling is a son of Frank L. Schilling, a former resident of Almond township.

Any man who lets his wife get up on a cold morning and light the kitchen fire will never set the world ablaze.

ABOUT UMBRELLAS.

How to Cure Them of "Slipping the Cog" Habit.

Even quite a new umbrella or parasol has been known to develop the trick of "slipping the cog" and half closing itself at most inappropriate seasons. The trouble in such case is with the little bit of metal which springs out from the stick for the purpose of holding the top part securely and tautly open. But exactly in what that trouble consists very few sufferers make the effort to investigate. Yet it is generally a very simple matter both to discover and to remedy. There need be no recourse to the umbrella mender if the household tool chest contains a slender, three sided "rattail" file, as every tool chest should.

The slipping is almost invariably caused by the angle at which the top of the above mentioned "spring piece" meets the stick. If it falls to slant inward and downward a trifle it is inevitable that the little tubular section to which the ribs are attached and which should be held securely by the spring piece will calmly press it back into the slot in the stick and slide shutward from the pressure of the ribs. This seems much detailed, but numerous users of umbrellas never do discover the cause of their discomfort and merely manage by holding the article open with a hand far up the stick. With the three sided file the top edge of the spring piece can be slanted so that it meets the stick at an acute angle, and therefore the tubular bit will not be able to dislodge itself. Once and for all it is cured.

VISITORS FROM WEST

Mr. and Mrs. G. G. Ames, who have lived for several years on a ranch near Lewiston, Idaho, spent the first of the week at the home of their son, Prof. M. M. Ames. They are now at Shiocton and from there the western gentleman and his two sons, M. M. of this city and J. H. of River Falls, will go on a fishing trip. They will then come here for an extended visit.

COMMITTEE NAMES TWO

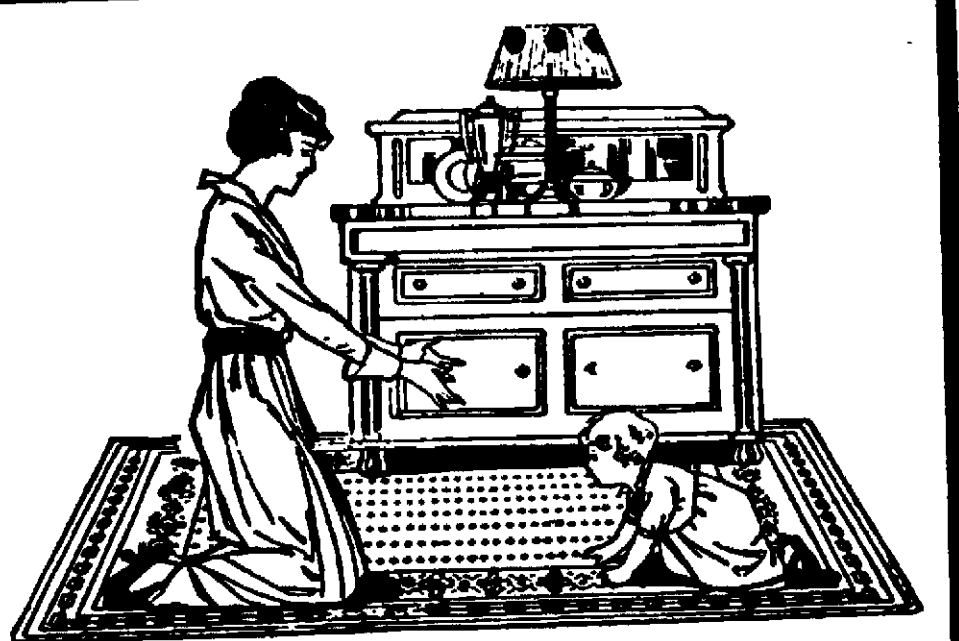

Frank J. Blood, recently elected president of the Board of Education, is preparing a list of standing committees to be submitted to the board at its regular monthly meeting next Monday evening. He has already appointed the committee on teachers, which comprises H. A. Vetter as chairman, J. M. Piffner, Simpson Todd, F. J. Jerzak, Guy Roberts and Supt. Snyder. They met Monday evening and recommended Misses Isabel Piffner and Grace Polbiak for positions as grade teachers. The first named young lady has been an instructor at Fond du Lac and Miss Polbiak taught at Park Falls for several years. She is now doing special work in the east.

TAKE WHOLE MONTH TO TEST CONSCRIPTS

Claims For Exemption Must Be Made According to Set Rules and Regulations

It will take a month to dispose of all of the claims that are made for exemption in Wisconsin. This takes into consideration the different periods allowed for filing claims for exemption, supporting affidavits and the allowance given the local and appeal boards to dispose of their duties. The maximums for time allowances in reaching decisions in matter is prescribed in the draft rules.

The notice of the call was sent out to 200 per cent of the number required. These men reported in Portage county within five, six and seven days to be examined. For other than industrial or agricultural reasons the claim for exemption must be filed with the local board within the first seven days. In Portage county this period expires tonight.

If the person is favorably passed by the local board, but he claims exemption on the ground that he has dependents, or he is not satisfied with the physical examination, within ten days of the time of filing his claim he must file supporting affidavits. This would make it seventeen days after the time of notification to appear for physical examination. The local board then has three days to pass upon the matter and within two days thereafter must make the certification to the district, or appeal board.

If the person is still favorably certified and he still desires to press his claim before the appeal board he has ten days to perfect the appeal. The district board must make a decision within five days thereafter. Taking all of these time allowances together more than thirty days is consumed.

The procedure where a man claims exemption because of his connection with industrial or agricultural pursuits is somewhat different and a shorter time is required. Within five days after the time that this man receives notice that he has been favorably passed by the local board he must file his claim for exemption. An additional five days' time is allowed for the admission of supporting affidavits.

This district board has original jurisdiction in this matter and must pass on the matter within five days. Thus within fifteen days after a man has been favorably passed by the local board his case will be disposed of by the appeal board, if exemption is claimed on the ground of industrial or agricultural reasons.

"Only the district board can receive claims for discharge on the ground that you are engaged in industry, including agriculture, found to be necessary to the maintenance of the military establishment, the effective operation of the military forces or the maintenance of national interest during the emergency," says the official information sent out.

"Such claims must be filed with the district board on or before the fifth day after the mailing and posting of notice that you have been certified by the local board as one who has been called for service and not exempted or discharged. Within five days after the closing of proof in any industrial claim the district board must decide the claim."

As soon as the entire lists are made up and all claims disposed of by the appeal boards the lists are certified to the adjutant general of the state.

"As soon as your case is finally disposed of, the adjutant general of your state will notify you by mail that you have been selected for military service," says the literature. "Notice that you have been selected for military service will not necessarily order you into the service. The notice to report for military service will come when the government is ready to receive you."

The headquarters of the appeal boards are at Madison, Milwaukee, Racine, Oshkosh and Eau Claire.

FAVORED A DEMOCRAT

One of Portage county's drafted men is a stickler for Democratic men as well as Democratic principles as disclosed by an incident that took place in the office of County Clerk A. E. Bourn, secretary of the exemption board. The registrant wished to file a claim for exemption and asked for a blank. Algie handed him the paper, saying, "You can have that filled out by any notary public." Algie laughed so hard he shook the big stone building when the applicant queried, "Wouldn't it be just as well to go to a Democrat?"

MAY GO TO WAR

Dr. Gareld B. Jensen, whose marriage to Miss Kathryn Zeney took place at Stanley last week Wednesday, is among the men called in the first draft for the new national army. Dr. Jensen, who is a son of Mr. and Mrs. J. L. Jensen of this city, has been in business at Werner, N. Dak., for the last two years, and he is now in that city waiting for his physical examination, which is scheduled for August 11. In case he is accepted for the army his bride will remain at her home in Stanley, but if rejected she will join him at Werner, where he has a home ready for occupancy. After their marriage Dr. and Mrs. Jensen went to the Twin Cities for a short stay.

MORE FOR MESS FUND

Savings Banks Conspicuously Placed in Sixteen Business Places

For Collections

The members of Troop I, Stevens Point's and Portage county's cavalry organization, now in quarters at Camp Douglas, will be provided with more than the regular army rations during their period of service, due to the initiative of some of the city's patriotic women, who have conceived the plan of placing savings banks in sixteen business places, where amounts ranging from pennies to dollars may be dropped. At the end of each month the banks will be opened and the contents donated to the mess fund.

The sum of $400 was raised from donations for a mess fund prior to the departure of Troop I from this city, but as this will not last a long time, the plan of placing savings banks in conspicuous places was devised, and it is believed that our patriotic citizens from the little tots to the grown-ups, will be glad to donate their spare change to adding to the comforts of the boys who are serving their country.

To add zest to making the collections as large as possible each month, a patroness for each savings bank has been appointed and each lady will undoubtedly make an effort to get donations to her bank. As a further stimulus to swell the donations, Clay C. Cooper of Chicago, a former resident of this city and who is visiting at the home of Judge B. B. Park, will contribute $5 as a nucleus for next month's collection to the savings bank turning in the largest amount at the end of this month.

The patronesses chosen and the location of the banks are as follows:

Miss Frances Hadcock, Citizens National bank.

Mrs. J. W. Dunegan, First National bank.

Mrs. E. B. Robertson, Wisconsin State bank.

Miss Mollie Kamrowski, S. J. Krygier's store, N. Second street.

Mrs. C. A. Gardiner, Soo Depot.

Mrs. E. H. Rogers, Burly's.

Miss Frances von Neupert, Alex Krembs' drug store.

Mrs. B. B. Park, Hannon-Bach pharmacy.

Mrs. W. H. Cutting, Majestic Hotel.

Mrs. A. E. MacMillan, W. W. Taylor's.

lor's Strongs avenue drug store.

Miss Mary Bronson, Palace of Sweets.

Miss Louise Southwick, Engstrom's Billiard hall.

Mrs. W. H. Wilson, Public Library.

Miss Millicent Olin, Wisconsin Valley Electric Co.'s office.

Mrs. F. A. Ball, Elks' club rooms.

Mrs. T. S. Murriah, Masonic Temple.

RELEASED ON BAIL

S. M. Wells, who had been held in the county jail for the last month on the charge of absconding after owing a board bill at the Myers hotel, was released Monday, he having agreed to pay the bill, which amounted to $19.60. He had also been given a number of tickets to sell on the Red Cross colt by Mr. Myers and satisfactorily straightened out that account.

BISHOP VISITS CITY

The laying of the cornerstone of St. Stanislaus church being erected on N. Fremont street, will take place at 7:30 o'clock this evening. Bishop Rhode of Green Bay will officiate at the services and deliver a sermon. Following the program, ice cream will be served on the grounds, the proceeds to go toward the new church. At nine o'clock this morning, solemn high mass was celebrated at St. Joseph's academy, 35 young ladies were received into the novitiate, and seventeen took the final vows of the sisterhood. A number of persons, including priests from other cities, are here today for both services.

BACK FROM FRANCE

After three years of service with the Red Cross ambulance corps in France, Reginald H. Weller, son of Bishop and Mrs. R. H. Weller of Fond du Lac and brother of Mrs. George B. Nelson of Stevens Point, is back for a brief rest. He expects to receive an officer's commission in the United States army. Paris went wild over the arrival of American troops in France, Mr. Weller said, and he declares that the entry of the United States in the war has inspired the allied peoples with increased confidence in their ability to overcome the Germans. Mr. Weller will visit at Fond du Lac and Green Lake before entering the army service.

"OVER THERE"

The Thrill and the Hell of the Trenches, Described by an American Boy.

Sergeant Alexander McClintock of Lexington, Ky., and the Canadian Army Has Greeting Tale That Every American Will Read, For He Tells the Facts—Unadorned. Wounded, a Distinguished Conduct Medal Man, He Was Invalided Home, but Is Going "Out There" Again to Fight For Uncle Sam and His Allies. An Inspiring, Interesting, Personal Narrative, Full of the Spirit and Atmosphere of the Trenches.

No. 3. "Over the Top and Give 'em Hell!"

By Sergeant Alexander McClintock, D. C. M., 87th Overseas Batt., Canadian Gren. Guards.

Copyright, 1917, by the Bell Syndicate, Inc.

Sergeant McClintock, who has seen service in France, was decorated for bravery, wounded, invalided home and is now endeavoring to get a commission in our army. A commission in the Canadian army awaits him if he returns to join his old command. In the first and second articles he graphically describes his training, his trip to France and the elaborate preparations made for a bomb raid on the German trenches.

As we climbed out of the shelter of our trenches for my first—and, perhaps, my last, I thought—adventure in No Man's Land the word was passed:

"Over the top and give 'em hell!" That is the British Tommies' battle cry as they charge the enemy, and it has often sounded up and down those long lines in western France as the British, Canadian and Australian soldiers go out to the fight and the death. We were divided into six parties of ten men, each party having separate duties to perform. We crouched forward, moving slowly in single file, stumbling into shell holes and over dead men—some very long dead—and managing to keep in touch with each other though the machine gun bullets began to drop men almost immediately. Once we were started we were neither fearful nor rattled. We had been drilled so long and so carefully that each man knew just what he was to do, and he kept right on doing it unless he got hit. To me it seemed the ground was moving back under me. The first ten yards were the toughest. The thing was perfectly organized. Our first party of ten was composed of signallers. They were paying out wires and carrying telephones to be used during the fifteen minutes of our stay in the German trenches in communicating with our battalion headquarters. A telephone code had been arranged, using the names of our commanding officers as symbols. "Rexford 1" meant "First prisoners being sent back"; "Rexford 2" meant "Our first wounded being sent over"; "Rexford 3" meant "We have entered German trench." The code was very complete, and the signallers had been drilled in it for a week. In case the telephone wires were cut, the signallers were to send messages back by the use of rifle grenades. These are rifle projectiles which carry little metal cylinders to contain written messages and which burst into flame when they strike the earth, so that they can be easily found at night. The officer in charge of the signallers was to remain at the point of entrance, with his eyes on his watch. It was his duty to sound a warning signal five minutes before the end of our time in the German trenches.

The leader of every party of ten also had a whistle with which to repeat the warning blast and then the final blast, when each man was to drop everything and get back to our artillery fire. We were not to leave any dead or wounded in the German trench on account of the information which the Germans might thus obtain. Before starting on the raid we had removed all marks from our persons, including even our identification disks. Except for the signallers, each party of ten was similarly organized. First there were two bayonet men, each with an electric flashlight attached to his rifle, so as to give light for the direction of a bayonet thrust and controlled by a button at the left hand grasp of the rifle. Besides his rifle, all of these men carried six or eight Mills No. 5 hand grenades, weighing from a pound and five ounces to a pound and seven ounces each.

The Lineup.

They are the same shape as a turkey egg and a little larger. Upon withdrawing the firing pin a lever sets a four second fuse going. One of these grenades will clean out anything living in a ten foot trench section. It will also kill the man who is throwing it if he holds it more than four seconds after he has pulled the pin. The third man of each ten was an expert bomb thrower, equipped as lightly as possible to give him freedom of action. He carried a few bombs himself, but the main supply was carried by the fourth man, who was not to throw any unless the third man became a casualty, in which case No. 4 was to take his place. The third man also carried a knob kerrie, a heavy budgeon to be used in whacking an enemy over the head. Ours were made by fastening heavy steel nuts on a stout stick of wood, a very businesslike contrivance. The fourth man, or bomb carrier, besides having a large supply of Mills grenades, had smoke bombs, to be used in smoking the Germans out of dugouts and later, if necessary, in covering our retreat, and also fumite bombs. The latter are very dangerous to handle. They contain a mixture of petrol and phosphorus and weigh three pounds each. On exploding they release a liquid fire which will burn through steel.

The fifth, sixth, seventh and eighth in line were called utility men. They were to take the places of any of the first four who might become casualties. In addition they carried two Stokes gun bombs each. These weigh nine pounds apiece, have six second fuses and can be used in wrecking dugouts. The ninth and tenth men were sappers, carrying slabs of gun-cotton and several hundred yards of instantaneous fuse. This explosive is used in demolishing machine gun emplacements and mine saps. The sappers were to lay their charges while we were at work in the trenches and explode them as soon as our party was far enough out on the return journey to be safe from this danger. In addition to these parties of ten there were three of us who carried bombs and had orders to keep near the three officers, to take the place of any one of them that might go down and meanwhile to use our own judgment about helping the jolly old party along. I was assigned one of the three.

In addition to the raiding party proper there was a relay call across No Man's Land at ten paces interval, making a chain to show us our way back, to assist the wounded and, in case of opportunity or necessity, to reinforce us. They were ordered not to leave their positions when we began to come back until the last man of our party had been accounted for. The final section of our entourage was composed of twelve stretcher bearers, who had been specially trained with us, so that they would be familiar with the trench section which we were to raid.

The Raid and Its Result.

There were two things which made it possible for our raiding party to get started across No Man's Land. One was the momentary quickening of the blood which follows a big and unaccustomed dose of rum, and the other was a sort of subconscious, mechanical confidence in our undertaking, which was a result of the scores of times we had gone through every prearranged movement in our practice duplicate German trenches behind our lines. Without either of those influences we simply could not have left the shelter and faced what was before us.

As intended bombardment from our guns began just as soon as we had climbed "over the top" and were lining up for the journey across. "Lining up" is not just a suitable term. We were crawling about on all fours just far enough out in No Man's Land to be under the edge of the German shell fire and taking what shelter we could in shell holes while our leaders picked the way to start across. The extra heavy bombardment had warned the Germans that something was about to happen. They sent up star shells and "S O S" signals until there was a glare over the torn earth like that which you see at the grand finish of a Pain's fireworks display, and meanwhile they sprayed No Man's Land with streams of machine gun fire. In the face of that we started.

It would be absurd to say that we were not frightened. Thinking men could not help but be afraid. If we were pulled, which undoubtedly we were, the black upon our faces hid it, but our four struck voices were not disguised. They trembled and our teeth chattered.

We sneaked out single file, making our way from shell hole to shell hole, nearly all the time on all fours, crawling quickly over the flat places between this small shelter. The Germans had not sighted us, but they were squirting machine gun bullets all over the place promiscuously, like a man watering a lawn with a garden hose, and they were bound to get some of us. Behind me I heard cries of pain and groans, but it made little impression on my benumbed intelligence from the mere fact that whatever had happened had happened to one of the other sections of ten and not to my own. It seemed, some way or other, no affair to concern me. Then a man in front of me doubled up suddenly and rolled into a shell hole. That simply made me remember very clearly that I was not to stop on account of it. It was some one else's business to pick that man up. Next, according to the queer psychology of battle, I began to lose my sensation of fear and nervousness. After I saw a second man go down I gave my attention principally to a consideration of the irregularities of the German parapet ahead of us, picking out the spot where we were to enter the trench. It seems silly to say it, but I seemed to get some sort of satisfaction out of the realization that we had lost the percentage which we might be expected to lose going over. Now, it seemed, the rest of us were safe until we should reach the next phase of our undertaking. I heard directions given, and I gave some myself. My voice was firm. It surprised me, and I felt almost calm. Our artillery had so torn up the German barb wire that it gave us no trouble at all. We walked through it with only a few scratches. When we reached the low, sandbag parapet of the enemy trench we tossed in a few bombs and followed them right over as soon as they had exploded. There wasn't a German in sight. They were all in their dugouts. But we knew pretty well where every dugout was located, and we rushed for the entrances with our bombs. Everything seemed to be going just as we had expected it to go. Two Germans ran plump into me as I was rounding a ditch angle with a bomb in my hand. They held their hands up, and each of them yelled:

"Mercy, kamerad!"

I passed them back, to be sent to the rear, and the man who received them from me chuckled and told them to move lively. The German trenches were practically just as we had expected to find them, according to our sample. They were so nearly similar to the duplicate section in which we had practiced that we had no trouble finding our way in them. I was just thinking that really the only tough part of the job remaining would be getting back across No Man's Land when it seemed that the whole earth behind me rose in the air. For a moment I was stunned and half blinded by dirt blown into my face. When I was able to see I discovered that all which lay behind me was a mass of upturned earth and rock, with here and there a man shaking himself or scrambling out of it or lying still.

Just two minutes after we went into their trench the Germans had exploded a mine under their parapet. I have always believed that in some way or another they had learned what spot we were to raid and had prepared for us. Whether that's true or not, one thing is certain—that mine blew our organization, as we would say in Kentucky, "plumb to h—l." And it killed or disabled more than half of our party.

Great Confusion.

There was much confusion among those of us who remained on our feet. Some one gave an order to retire, and some one countermanded it. More Germans came out of their dugouts, but instead of surrendering as per our original schedule they threw bombs among us. It became apparent that we would be killed or captured if we stuck there and that we wouldn't get any more prisoners. I looked at my wrist watch and saw that there remained but five minutes more of the time which had been allotted for our stay in the trench, so I blew my whistle and started back. I had seen Private Green (No. 177,250) knocked down by a bomb in the next section, and I picked him up and carried him out over the wrecked parapet. I took shelter with him in the first shell hole, but I found that he was dead and left him there. A few yards farther back toward our line I found Lance Corporal Glass in a shell hole with part of his hip shot away. He said he thought he could get back if I helped him, and I started with him. Private Hunter, who had been in a neighboring shell hole, came to our assistance, and between us Hunter and I got Glass to our front trench.

We found them lining up the survivors of our party for a roll call. That showed so many missing that Major Lewis, formerly of the Montreal Star, called for volunteers to go out in No Man's Land and try to find some of our men. Corporal Charleson, Private Saunders and I went out. We brought in two wounded, and we saw a number of dead, but on account of their blackened faces were unable to recognize them. The scouts later brought in several bodies.

Of the sixty odd men who had started in our party forty-three were found to be casualties—killed, wounded or missing. The missing list was the longest. The names of those men were marked "m. b. k." (missing; believed killed) on our rolls. I have learned since that some few of them have been reported through Switzerland as prisoners of war in Germany, but most of them are now officially listed as dead.

All of the survivors of the raiding party were sent twenty miles to the rear at 7 o'clock, and the noncommissioned officers were ordered to make reports in writing concerning the entire raid. I never slept more than an hour at a time for several days and nights. I would doze off from sheer exhaustion and then suddenly find myself sitting straight up, scared half to death all over again.

There may be soldiers who won't get scared when they know they are in danger or even when people are being killed right around them, but I'm not one of them. And I've never met any of them yet. I know a boy who won the military cross in the battle of the Somme, and I saw him on his knees before his platoon commander, shamelessly crying he was a coward and begging to be left behind, just when the order to advance was given.

In this war in every offensive, big or small, the man who has been trained to throw a bomb thirty yards is busier and more important than the fellow with the modern rifle, which will shoot a mile and a half and make a hole through a house. In a good many surprising ways this war has carried us back to first principles. I remember a crusader's mace which I once saw in the British museum that would make a bang up knob kerrie, much better than the kind with which they arm our No. 4 men in a raiding section. It had a round iron head, with spikes all over it. I wonder that they haven't started a factory to turn them out.

Tricks of Bombing.

When the Canadians first introduced bombing the bombs were improvised out of mess tins, the fuses were cut according to the taste and judgment of the individual bomber, and just when the bomb would explode was more or less problematical. Frequently the Germans have tossed our bombs back into our trenches before they went off. That was dangerous and irritating. They can't do that with a Mills grenade or any of the improved factory made bombs, because the men know just how they are timed and are trained to know just how to throw them. Then the Germans used to work a little bomb trick of their own. They learned that our scouts and raiders were all anxious to get a German helmet as a souvenir. They'd put helmets on the ground in No Man's Land or in an advanced trench with bombs under them. In several cases men looking for souvenirs suddenly became mere memories themselves.

In several raids when bombing was new the Canadians worked a trick on the Germans with extensively fatal effect. They tossed bombs into the German trenches with six inch fuses attached. To the Germans they looked just like the other bombs we had been using, and, in fact, they were—all but the fuses. Instead of having failed to continue burning, as the Germans thought, those fuses had never been lighted. They were instantaneous fuses. The ignition spark will travel through an instantaneous fuse at the rate of thirty yards a second. A German would pick up one of these bombs, select the spot where he intended to blow up a few of us with our own ammunition and then light the fuse. After that there had to be a new man in his place. The bomb would explode instantly the long fuse was limited.

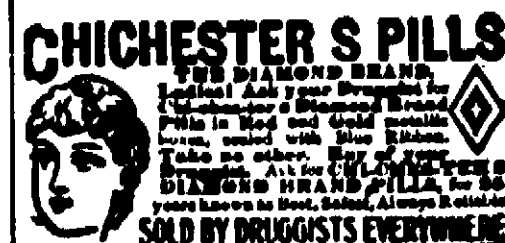

The next day when I got up after this disastrous raid my bunkie said: "Something sure raised h— with our calculations."

"As those automatic self cocking revolvers did with a Kentucky wedding when some one made a remark reflecting on the bride," I replied.

The fourth article of this remarkable personal narrative will appear soon. It is entitled:

No. 4—Shifted to the Somme.

Sergeant McClintock takes part in the greatest of all battles and tells of the hell of it. "The front in Belgium was really a vast desert in comparison with the extensive preparations it has seen since for open warfare afterward abandoned because of the failure of expected developments."

NOTICE OF SHERIFF'S SALE.

By virtue of an execution, issued out of and under the seal of the circuit court in and for the county of Portage and state of Wisconsin, upon a judgment rendered and docketed in the said court, on the 22nd day of December, 1916, in an action wherein The Melcher Lumber Co., a corporation, is plaintiff, and A. W. McIntee is defendant, in favor of said plaintiff, and against the said defendant, for the sum of Four hundred seventy-seven and 69-100 ($477.69) Dollars, which execution was directed and delivered to me as sheriff in and for said county of Portage, I have levied upon all the right, title and interest of said defendant A. W. McIntee in and to the following described real estate, to-wit: Commencing at a point sixteen and one-half (16½) feet directly east of the west line of the southeast quarter of the southwest quarter (SE¼ SW¼) section twenty-seven (27) Township twenty-one (21) north of Range nine (9) east, where the same shall intersect the south boundary line of the right of way of the Chicago & Northwestern Railway Company, which is the place of beginning. Thence running in a southeasterly direction along the line of the said right-of-way three hundred and eighty-two and one-half (382½) feet; thence running directly south one hundred thirty-nine (139) feet; thence running in a northwesterly direction parallel with said mentioned right-of-way three hundred eighty-two and one-half (382½) feet; thence running directly north one hundred thirty-nine (139) feet to place of beginning, said tract to contain one acre more or less and lying and being in Portage county, Wisconsin.

Notice is hereby given, that I, the undersigned, as sheriff aforesaid, will sell the above described real property to the highest bidder, for cash, at public auction, at the west front door of the court house in the city of Stevens Point, in the county of Portage and state of Wisconsin, on the 17th day of September, 1917, at one o'clock in the afternoon of that day, to satisfy the said execution, together with the interest and costs thereon.

Dated July 25th, 1917.

JOHN F. KUBISIAK,
Sheriff, Portage County, Wisconsin.

BETTER FARMING—BETTER BUSINESS—BETTER LIVING

WINTER WHEAT AND RYE

The acreage of winter wheat and rye in Wisconsin will likely increase with a bound this fall.

Records of practically all this season's crops show a notable increase in acreage; this is the response of Badger farmers to the call for increased food production and there is every reason to believe that the good work will be kept up when the time comes to put in winter grain.

"Both rye and wheat are excellent winter grains for Wisconsin," says R. A. Moore, the well known Wisconsin grain breeder. Mr. Moore has been successful in breeding pedigreed strains which have made Wisconsin famous all over the world as a seed grain state. The strains of rye and wheat bred under his direction at the college of agriculture have been very successfully grown under northern conditions.

The Wisconsin pedigreed rye has now had 18 years of breeding work placed upon it, and is regarded as one of the best flour making ryes in Wisconsin. It has given a yield of about five bushels more per acre than the common varieties.

"Rye responds to good treatment as well as other plants and will grow on land which does not produce wheat, oats, and barley so well; consequently Wisconsin farmers find it an excellent crop for the light soils of the state. Rye should be sown during the month of September and usually is put on ground which has grown peas, potatoes, or corn. Corn which has been cut for silage is usually taken from the ground in time for rye.

"Rye is generally seeded at the rate of 1½ bushels an acre. Either the drilling or broadcast method can be used for putting seed in the ground. If sown the last week in August or the first week in September, rye fields may be used for pasture for stock both in fall and spring. Rye pastured as late as the middle of May will yield a good crop.

"Wisconsin was formerly a great wheat-growing state but her people turned all their attention to the growing of this crop and consequently the fertility of the lands was soon ruined and people gave up growing this great cereal. Farmers will never again plant wheat continuously but will follow a three or four-year rotation, seeding clover or some of the rotation crops, and there is no reason why it cannot be successfully and profitably grown. Two varieties which are being planted very successfully in this state are Wisconsin Pedigree No. 2, and Pedigree No. 408. These are strains which have been bred at the Wisconsin college of agriculture especially for our northern climate. Both are hard winter wheat. "Wheat can be sown earlier than rye, though it may be put in as late as the middle of September. It will be better, however, if sown the first week in September. If sown broad cast, wheat should be seeded at the rate of 1½ bushels an acre. On very light, sandy soils where wheat shows little growth, it should be sown in drills at the rate of 1½ bushels an acre."

STATE OF WISCONSIN; Circuit Court; Portage County. Julius Levinaky, plaintiff, vs. Charles Scholl, defendant.

Whereas, the real estate hereinafter described, of said defendant, was duly attached in this action on the 12th day of July, 1916, under a warrant attachment issued herein, and whereas, judgment was thereafter rendered and entered in this action on the 16th day of July, 1917, in favor of the said plaintiff and against the said defendant for the sum of Two hundred fifty-four and 21-100 ($254.21) dollars damages and costs, and whereas, it was provided in and by said judgment, among other things, that the sheriff of Portage County, satisfy said judgment out of the personal property of said judgment debtor within the County of Portage, or if sufficient personal property cannot be found, then, that the said sheriff sell all of the right, title and interest that the defendant had on the 12th of July, 1916, in and to the real property so attached, or any right, title and interest in said real property this said defendant has since acquired.

Now, therefore, by virtue of an execution issued out of and under the seal of the circuit court in and for the County of Portage and State of Wisconsin, upon the said judgment rendered and docketed in said court, on the 16th day of July, 1917, as aforesaid, and which execution was directed and delivered to me as sheriff in and for said County of Portage, I have levied upon and will sell all of the right, title and interest which the defendant, Charles Scholl, had on the 12th day of July, 1916, in and to the real property hereinafter described, or which he has since acquired, to-wit: Lots numbered thirteen and fourteen (13 and 14) in block numbered four (4) in Helm's Addition in the city of Stevens Point, County of Portage and State of Wisconsin, I, the said sheriff, being unable to find any personal property of the defendant to satisfy said judgment.

Notice is hereby given, that I, the undersigned, as sheriff aforesaid, will sell all of the right, title and interest which the defendant, Charles Scholl, had on the 12th day of July, 1916, in and to the real estate hereinbefore described, or which he has since acquired, to the highest bidder for cash at public auction, at the front door of the court house facing on Strong's Avenue, in the city of Stevens Point, County of Portage and State of Wisconsin, on the 12th day of September, 1917, at ten o'clock in the forenoon of that day, to satisfy the said execution together with the interest and costs thereon.

Dated July 27th, 1917.
John F. Kubisiak,
Sheriff of Portage County.

PREVENT SOIL BLOWING

Hedge fences are effective in the prevention of soil blowing, and should be set out by farmers where damage is done through this cause. Evergreen hedges are the best. They present a good appearance throughout the entire year, and cut off the wind from the surface of the field where the most damage is done through soil blowing. Good varieties to set out are red cedar, Austrian pine, Western yellow pine and Chinese arbor vitae.

If ordinary Osage orange hedge is already set out, do not cut it down. The soil nearest the hedge will not yield a profitable crop of grain, but a strip of alfalfa two rods wide may be planted alongside the hedge. The alfalfa will yield a good crop, as it is not harmed by partial shade. The hedge will act as a windbreak and all the ground will be profitably utilized.

BIRDS HELP FARMERS

Birds help the farmers produce food by destroying insect pests. Therefore birds may be considered as one of the allies. In the August Farm and Fireside we read:

"Birds are almost as busy as bees, and their work in increasing the crop yields is highly important. One of the cheapest and most effective ways to fight insect pests that annually take crop toll estimated at $800,000,000 is to aid in the preservation of bird life. Few people realize how many insects are destroyed by birds. A teaspoonful of chinch bugs has been taken from the crop of one quail, and an adult bird has been known to eat 5,000 plant lice in two hours. Such worms and bugs as infest our gardens are favorite food for bluebirds, robins, and many other kinds of birds.

"It is true that some insect pests may be fought with chemicals. Owing to the great war, though, prices for many materials commonly used in sprays, washes and poison mashes are pretty near prohibitive. But the birds work at before-the-war wages.

"Birds also eat thousands of weed seeds. A single quail, when killed, was found to contain 10,000 pigweed seeds. With labor scarce and high, whatever will aid the farmer in his crop against weeds is worth while."

HOW TO RAISE THE CALF

"If calves are weaned they should be fed whole milk until they are one month old, when they should be changed to skim milk," says a dairy expert. "They should be fed skim milk until they are six months old. While they are on milk they should be given some grain and alfalfa hay. "A good mixture for grain feed is four parts of corn or corn chop, one part of oil meal, and two parts of wheat bran. After taking the calf off the milk, increase the grain gradually to two pounds a day in addition to silage and alfalfa hay.

"The heifers should be bred so as to calve when from twenty-four to thirty months of age, depending upon the breed and growth of the animal. If bred so as to calve earlier than this, their growth is apt to be injured."

Does Your Back Ache?

It's usually a sign of sick kidneys, especially if the kidney action is disordered. Don't wait for more serious troubles. Begin using Doan's Kidney Pills. Read this Stevens Point testimony.

Mrs. Allen, 531 Ellis street, Stevens Point, says: "For about eight years I had severe backaches. I suffered from sharp, shooting pains in the small of my back and I was restless and tired at night. At times, my kidneys were quite irregular in action. I felt nervous and run down. One box of Doan's Kidney Pills helped me so much that I continued taking them. Four boxes cured me. Recently some of the old symptoms of kidney trouble returned but Doan's Kidney Pills again fixed me up in good shape."

Price 60 cents at all dealers. Don't simply ask for a kidney remedy—get Doan's Kidney Pills—the same that cured Mrs. Allen. Foster-Milburn Co., Props., Buffalo, N. Y.

TAUGHT HIM PATRIOTISM

Frank D. Burgess, a Weyauwega man, got a lesson in patriotism at Waupaca a few days ago which he probably won't soon forget. Burgess is said to have made abusive remarks about the Waupaca National Guardsmen, who have been drilling there. He cursed the captain and voiced his disloyalty so strongly that finally some of the soldiers took him in hand and ducked him in the horse trough on the court house square. When he started kicking he was given a few blows on the head. He finally was allowed to go and he was not slow in making his departure.

ADVANCE IN PRICE

The Chicago Tribune having advanced its subscription price, it is necessary for The Gazette to advance the combination subscription price of the two papers. From now on the price of The Gazette and Chicago's greatest newspaper, the Daily Tribune, both for one year, will be $5.15. This rate applies to rural districts as well as cities and villages.

NO NEW TRAINMASTER

The position of trainmaster at Ironwood, made vacant by the death of C. M. Anderson, who was drowned a few weeks ago, has been abolished by the Soo line. A reorganization of departments has been effected, so that hereafter the duties heretofore discharged by Mr. Anderson will be handled in a general way, from the division headquarters in Stevens Point. However, Geo. Nolan, switch-engine foreman at Ironwood, has been promoted to general yardmaster there and will be in direct charge of traffic on the Mellen-Bessemer line.

given physical examinations. The number who passed the test was surprisingly low, and the number of exemption claims was surprisingly large. The long looked for allied offensive in Flanders was opened by the British forces under Field Marshal Haig, who, in co-operation with the French, gained ground on a twenty mile front. However, the enemy recaptured part of this territory. Secretary Daniels gave out the report of Rear Admiral Gleaves, which confirmed in part the Fourth of July announcement that enemy submarines had attacked the first American transports. Military movements continued throughout the country, several companies leaving for camps where they will get their training.

FOOD CONTROL SOON TO BE LAW

Texan's Prohibition Amendment to Food Bill Held Up In the House.

While the department refuses to give out details, it was learned that by far the largest number of arrests have been made in Washington, Oregon, Arizona, Montana, Minnesota, Colorado, Illinois and Wisconsin.

The men arrested have received sentences ranging from one day to one year in jail. As rapidly as possible the department is registering all those convicted and has assigned to them the serial numbers vacated by those coming first on the list who have been rejected or have secured exemptions from their local boards. This will insure the prisoners being put into the army provided they are found fit for military service. If found fit they will be taken out of jail, but if rejected they will have to serve their sentences.

to reduce interference with industry to a minimum, but it was the interest of the nation solely that must be subserved.

As a direct slap at "marriage slackers" the government will automatically appeal from every exemption on the grounds of dependency. Some person will be designated to make this appeal to protect the government's interests.

This designation (of a party representing the government) has already been made for each local board or will be made within the next few days. General Crowder announced.

Will Appeal Exemptions.

"This person," it was explained, "may appeal exemptions or discharges on other grounds besides dependency if he thinks injury to other registrants or to the government makes such appeal desirable."

The purpose of the appeals is to obtain nation wide uniformity in exemption rulings, which is regarded as otherwise impossible from 4,567 local boards.

All registrants are invited by General Crowder to report any improper exemptions.

Discussing industrial exemptions, General Crowder said that district boards were "powerless to relieve cases in which private loss or hardship rather than national necessity" were at stake.

"Otherwise another man would be asked to offer his life in order that this man's material benefit be served," said General Crowder.

$3,000,000,000 Loan on Nov. 15.

The second liberty loan—$3,000,000,000—will be launched Nov. 15, treasury officials said. Before that time it is planned to issue nearly $1,000,000,000 in treasury short time certificates to meet immediate needs.

On the eve of the announcement of the second liberty loan treasury officials are at a loss for a name to distinguish it from the first.

To sell the second issue of bonds a campaign is being planned which will overshadow the organization and publicity which made the first bond issue so great a success. Much of the first organization will be used, conferences with district liberty loan committees and prominent bankers from all parts of the country already having been held.

A new feature in the second bond selling campaign will be the women's liberty loan committee. It has named state chairmen and opened offices in the treasury building here. The entire campaign will be under the direction of Secretary McAdoo and the national liberty loan committee, which figured in the previous issue.

Several million new posters and 5,000,000 liberty loan buttons have been contracted for.

To Fight Exemptions.

The government is preparing to fight claims for exemption from conscription. Concerned at the great number of those attempting to avoid service, the provost marshal general's office announced the method by which the government would appeal to district boards from rulings of local boards.

Warning that exemptions in agriculture and other industries would be carefully scrutinized was found in the announcement that "the problem was

FAILED TO REGISTER OFFICIAL PROCEEDINGS

But Two Stevens Point Young Men Are Patriotic and Are Ready to Fight

Because they had been living in a little world all by themselves and were consequently unacquainted with events that were transpiring outside, two Stevens Point young men, Joseph Ramczyk and Felix Plasky, found themselves liable to a year's imprisonment for failing to register under the conscription law.

The two men, both of military age, returned to the city last week from a camp near Merrill where they had been working for about two months and a half. After being informed of their duty under the law, they presented themselves before A. E. Bourn, secretary of the county board of registration and the county board of exemption. The period for registration was past, but Mr. Bourn took the matter up with the adjutant general, who advised him to have the men examined and then assigned to some branch of the service.

Both young fellows were willing to enlist and even to take their places among the draft recruits. However, they preferred to join Troop I at Camp Douglas. They passed the physical examination and last Friday went to Camp Douglas to find a place in the National Guard. They were disappointed in this, however, as the Guard has been enrolled in the federal service and no volunteers are now taken. They returned to Stevens Point Monday and Secretary Bourn is taking the matter up with the district exemption board. It is probable they will be drawn into the service along with the men drafted in the regular way.

It is charged that the foreman of the camp in which the two men worked was acquainted with the draft law, but that he withheld information regarding registration.

DEWEY WOMAN DIES

Mrs. Josephine Szalwinski died at her home in the town of Dewey last Sunday, death being caused by tuberculosis. The deceased was born in Russian Poland and came to this country many years ago. The funeral was held Tuesday morning at St. Casimir's church, Rev. J. Sokol officiating.

THE SAME OLD STORY

The city baseball team again met defeat last Sunday at the hands of the Mosinee city team. The game was played at Mosinee and the final score was 9 to 3 in favor of the river boys. The local team has been defeated in every game played this season but one, although they have played excellent ball in a number of the contests. Sunday's battery for Stevens Point was Hollenbeck, Menzel and Hilliard.

JOINS MARINE CORPS

Howard Wells, son of Mr. and Mrs. E. E. Wells and brother of Mrs. W. E. Atwell of this city, was accepted for enlistment in the United States Marine Corps at Chicago last week. Although the physical requirements for enlistment in the Marine Corps are the strictest of any branch of the service, Howard passed the examination with ease and was declared to be among the most fit of any the examining doctor had encountered. He expects to leave Chicago Thursday for training at some Atlantic port and will then be prepared to be "first in the fight" on land or sea with what is declared to be the finest body of fighting men in the world. Until he goes east Howard will visit at the home of his sister, Mrs. Lyman Sexsmith, at Glencoe, Ill.

WASHING DISEASE AWAY

Tomost of us is surprising to learn how much attention the medical officers in the French battlefields give to personal cleanliness of the soldiers as a disease preventative. It would almost seem to one not initiated in the ways of war, that so many big things need to be done that minor necessities, like baths for example, might be suspended or at least be made a matter of convenience. Not so, however.

Partly because typhus fever is spread by lice, the greatest care is exercised to provide bathing facilities. The French, furthermore, maintain barbers to "complete the toilet of the men by trimming the hair." How difficult the bathing may be is indicated by the following from an article on "Military Sanitation" in the American Journal of Public Health:

"The water is warmed on the cook fire and the men are brought in groups of ten, made to undress and are scrubbed. In especially unfavorable conditions in cold weather, the bathing may be done in the stables where the heat from the animals will maintain a comfortable temperature." Few American homes are so poor that better provisions than these, at least, are not offered.

"In theory, at least, the French insist much more strongly than the British upon the cleanliness of the soldier. More than once a day he is required to wash hands and feet, clean nails and comb hair. Mouth and teeth are washed in the absence of a brush, with a soap solution and then rinsed. There should be a daily bath. At least every week the men are required to take a shower bath. The soldier is also required to frequently wash his clothing."

Cleanliness of hands and teeth, especially, is a great health agency. If soldiers living under present war conditions are required to attend to such disease prevention measures, certainly we who stay at home among relatively luxurious surroundings, should find a way to do no less for our health's sake.

It is the duty of today that counts.

Nobody cares how wise or good you were yesterday, nor what you are to do tomorrow. It is what you are doing now that concerns the world.

Stenseth, deceased, for the examination and allowance of his final account, and for the assignment of the residue of the estate of said deceased to such persons as are by law entitled thereto; and for the determination and adjudication of the inheritance tax, if any, payable in said estate. Dated this 23rd day of July, A. D. 1917.

By the County Judge.

J. R. Pflieger, attorney for the administrator.

(June 27-ins.)

STATE OF WISCONSIN - In Circuit Court - Portage County, Wisconsin - In Probate. In the matter of the estate of Sarah Stenseth, deceased, vs. Knudt Stenseth and Laura Stenseth, his wife, and Petra Paulson, defendants. Notice is hereby given, that by virtue of a judgment of foreclosure and sale rendered in the above entitled action on the 14th day of June, 1916, and docketed in the office of the Clerk of the Circuit Court for Portage County, Wisconsin, on said day, I, the undersigned, Sheriff of said county, will cause to be sold, for sale and sell at public auction to the highest bidder for cash, at the west front door of the court house in the city of Stevens Point, in said county and state, on the 10th day of August, A. D. 1917, at 10 o'clock a. m., the following described premises, to-wit: The southwest quarter of the southwest quarter, Section thirty-six (36), in Township twenty-five (25), north of Range ten (10) East, lying and being in Portage County, Wisconsin. Dated this 23rd day of July, A. D. 1917.

JOHN F. KUBISIAK, Sheriff of Portage County, Wisconsin. Fisher & Coshlin, Plaintiff's Attorneys.

(1st pub. Aug. 1-7 ins.)

NOTICE OF FORECLOSURE SALE. State of Wisconsin. In Circuit Court, Portage County. E. B. Robertson, Samuel Behr and Margaret Behr, his wife, plaintiffs, vs. James B. Fox and Emma Fox, his wife, Peter Engeldinger and Harry Engeldinger, partners as Peter Engeldinger & Son, defendants.

By virtue of the judgment of foreclosure and sale in the above entitled action made and entered on the 20th day of July, 1916, said premises not having been redeemed from the lien of said judgment as provided by law, I shall on the 15th day of September, A. D. 1917, at 10 o'clock in the forenoon of that day, at the west door of the Court House in the city of Stevens Point, in said county, offer for sale and sell at public auction and vendue the following described real estate situated in Portage county, and all the right, title and interest which the said defendants or any, or either of them had therein on the 20th day of July, 1916, or which they may have since acquired, or so much thereof as shall be necessary to satisfy the judgment, costs and disbursements and costs of sale herein, to-wit: The southeast quarter of the southwest quarter of section No. thirteen (13); and the northeast quarter of the northwest quarter and the south half of the northwest quarter or section No. twenty-four (24); and the southwest quarter of the southeast quarter of section No. 13 (13), all in township No. twenty-five (25), North of Range No. six (6) East, being the farm in the town of Eau Claire, known as the Behr farm; said premises will be first offered for sale in parcels in the order herein described, and thereafter offered for sale as a whole; said sale to be made subject to the rights of the tenants on said premises to use the premises so rented during the season of 1917 and to remove their crops therefrom.

Terms of sale, cash on delivery of deed.

Dated at Stevens Point, Wisconsin, this 23rd day of July, 1917.

John F. Kubisiak, Sheriff of Portage County, Wisconsin.

Miss Dena Knop of Fond du Lac and Miss Myrtle Starr of Rush Lake were guests of Miss Cora Turner a part of last week. Miss Knop returned to her home on Friday and Miss Starr went to Carey's Corners for an over Sunday visit at the farm home of her brother, Glen Starr. Both ladies were former Amherst teachers.

Miss Jessie Paynter of Fond du Lac came up Saturday and was a guest at the S. C. Swenson home. On Monday Miss Paynter and Miss Starr went to Meehan station for a visit with Mrs. Bert Fox. Miss Paynter was for several years a popular Amherst teacher but last year held a position in Albany, Oregon. She expects to return there for the coming year.

"Don't feed the hoboes" is the advice given by the State Council of Defense. There is more work to be done than there are men to do it. If you must feed him, make him work for his meal first; otherwise you are doing an unpatriotic act. It is gratifying to know that the sheriff and police officers have been instructed to round up these parasites who live from the industry of others and will try to see that they be made to work.

The Amherst W. C. T. U. are supplying each Amherst soldier boy with a sewing kit containing needles and thread, scissors, buttons and pins. The soldiers have nicknamed this their "housewife" as it helps them darn their socks and mend their rips, and sew on their buttons. The kits can be made and equipped for about 75 cents each. Mrs. Moberg, wife of Editor J. L. Moberg, donated printed copies of the Lord's Prayer, one copy to be inclosed in each kit.

NORTH COUNTY LINE

A number of parties from Milladore and this vicinity motored to Camp Douglas on Sunday.

The late rains have been of immense benefit to the crops in general around here. They are looking fine.

A dance was held at Joe Marchel's one evening last week. A large crowd attended and all report a good time.

Pickle picking has commenced and the people around here expect large returns from the cucumber crop. Haying is pretty nearly finished and the barley is being cut.

DANCY

Harvesting is well under way and grain never was better.

Floyd E. Williams enjoyed a visit from his father from Medford the past week.

Several from here attended the chautauqua at Mosinee the past week and pronounced it first class.

G. J. Altenburg accompanied F. Bell of Mosinee to Milwaukee the past week and drove up some new autos.

Albert Borth has just completed the remodeling of his threshing machine and expects soon to begin operations on a large scale, as the grain acreage is big this year and the crop is fine.

The past week Harry and Joe Marchel shipped one-half of their last year's crop of ginseng which amounted to 1,250 pounds. The remainder they still hold. The Marchel brothers have long been known as extensive growers of ginseng.

Last week Tuesday the Wausau Packing plant shipped a car load of cattle out or here and Rev. T. W. North, who owns a farm near Dancy, had a car load of fine Holstein cows shipped in from the southern part of the state and placed on his land.

There will be a big harvest ball next Monday evening, the 13th, in Topham's hall, for which music will be furnished by Stecker's orchestra of Appleton. R. W. Mackenzie has the affair in charge which guarantees good order. Everybody come and enjoy a pleasant evening.

Sunday afternoon Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Gensether of Knowlton and the latter's guest from Baraboo and Mr. and Mrs. G. G. Kneller motored to the Gensether car to Frank Blood's famous summer resort on the Wisconsin river, where they enjoyed a most sumptuous dinner, such as only Mr. Blood knows how to prepare.

The writer overlooked the fact of mentioning some time ago that the total taken in at the recent Red Cross ball was $179.02. Out of this there was net $108.61, which amount was remitted to the Red Cross organization at Wausau. The Red Cross organization send their kindest appreciation and thanks to all those who contributed towards making the affair a success.

Last Wednesday the writer observed autos passing through here from Arkansas, Wyoming, South Dakota, Minnesota, Indiana, Illinois and from Milwaukee, which goes to show what the auto is bound to do towards developing the country in general. Many of the tourists commented on how prosperous this country appeared.

Stoner Virum, who for many years had been general woods overseer for the John Week Lumber Co., died at his home in Stevens Point last Friday evening after a very brief illness. A strange coincidence in connection with his death was the fact that A. R. Week, with whom he was employed, died that morning at Los Angeles, Cal., where he had been for his health. Mr. Virum was widely known throughout this section, where his work had taken him for many years, and the sympathy of the community goes out to his family.

WEST EAU CLAIRE

This week Monday a farewell reception was given at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Anton Anderson for Norman Nelson, who is one of the drafted men and left Tuesday for his home at Winnetka, Ill.

The Swedish Sunday school will have a picnic in Chas. Swanson's grove next Saturday afternoon. On Sunday there will be services morning and afternoon at the grove. Two ministers will have charge of the meetings. A picnic lunch will be served at noon. The public is invited to attend these meetings.

MEEHAN

Orrin Clendenning expects to start his threshing machine this week.

The fall term of school commenced Monday with Miss Minnie Peterson of Amherst as teacher.

Mrs. Wm. Clussmann is making an extended visit down at Madison at the home of her son, Clinton.

Mr. and Mrs. D. H. Parks, accompanied by Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Cartmill of McDill, autowed to Eldron Sunday.

Mrs. L. W. Netzel of Linwood spent a couple of days here last week visiting with friends and picking blueberries.

Farmers have their rye cut and are busy this week harvesting oats and stacking grain. Crops of rye and oats are pretty good this year.

Another fine rain storm visited us Saturday night and refreshed the growing crops. The hand of Providence has surely been good to us so far this season by sending an abundant supply of sunshine and rain.

Mr. and Mrs. B. S. Fox went down to Camp Douglas Saturday to see the soldier boys in camp and visit with their son, Garrett, who is now a member of Troop I, 1st Wis. Cavalry, which is also in camp there.

The Sunday school has decided to hold their annual picnic on the church grounds, Saturday, Aug. 25th. There will also be a district institute held in the church on the same date. All are invited to attend and enjoy the day and help make it a profitable gathering.

MILLADORE

Miss Dorothea Dyer has returned from her visit at Oxford.

Misses Martha and Clara Petersen are visiting at Sparta.

Miss Mabel Conko of Eau Claire is visiting her cousin, Miss Mildred Duncan.

C. Jensen, who had been visiting at different places, returned to his home in Milladore last week Monday.

What promises to be one of the neatest homes in Milladore is now under construction for Ed. Haunschild, who recently purchased a 50 x 150 lot from Mrs. C. L. Petersen and located just east of the Petersen home and postoffice. Concrete basement walls have already been laid and work on the superstructure was commenced this week. The new house will be a one story bungalow and contain seven rooms. Lawrence Haunschild of Pittsville has charge of the carpenter work.

Growers have already commenced hauling cucumbers to the Alart P. McGuire milking station here and it is expected that this season will be better than last year, when 12,000 bushels were brought and $6,000 distributed among our farmers. Three sizes of cucumbers are accepted, the smallest, or No. 1 size, bringing $1.50 per bushel; No. 2, 50 cents, and No. 3, 30 cents. Besides the 100 acres or more planted in this immediate vicinity, the Alart P. McGuire people will also buy at Sherry and Auburndale and haul to Milladore. Chas. Kocian has been engaged to do the hauling.

This village has boasted on many features not common to the average town of its size and only last week the list was enlarged by a stunt performed by members of the Verbeet family.

Early last Friday morning Grant Verhulst and two of his sisters, Misses Mabel and Reta, left here on a hike to Waupaca for a ten days' stay at Camp Cleghorn, Chain o' Lakes. They reached Stevens Point shortly after 11 o'clock and in the early afternoon continued to Amherst Junction, spending the night at Lake Emily. The journey was completed on Saturday and although all of them were a trifle footsore, yet the experience was worth while. Mr. and Mrs. Verhulst drove down Sunday and visited a few hours with the young folks.

A special meeting of stockholders in the Milladore Farmers' Co-operative Creamery Co. was held a few days ago, when it was voted to purchase machinery for cheese making. The new outfit has been ordered and is expected here within a few days. Manufacture of cheese will begin on or before Sept. 1st. As a given quantity of milk made into cheese brings greater revenue to the farmer than a creamery can afford to pay, many of the butter factories have installed cheese making machinery, and as the Milladore concern is a thoroughly progressive institution they have decided to follow the general trend. A considerable change in officers has also been made by the local institution, J. N. Pratus succeeding Geo. Hooper as president, Chas. Feit was elected vice president and John Becker treasurer. Chas. L. Petersen, the efficient secretary, will continue in this capacity.

Efficient Lighting System in Industrial Plants Not an Expenditure, Expert Says

"Good lighting is an investment, not an expenditure,"

That was the emphatic declaration of John A. Hoveler of the industrial commission of Wisconsin, who gave a lecture in the library club rooms Monday evening on factory and store lighting. Mr. Hoveler came here under the auspices of the Wisconsin Valley Electric Co., which arranged for a smoker as a part of the evening's program. Nearly fifty men were present.

Mr. Hoveler discussed both natural and artificial lighting, particularly the latter, which he said, is being used more extensively in industrial institutions owing to growing congestion, night work and the recognized need of artificial light during the hours of diminishing daylight. In order to assist in the campaign of education that is being waged in favor of better lighting, the industrial commission will soon issue a bulletin on shop lighting, Mr. Hoveler announced.

The success or failure of a lighting system is determined by its effect on the eye, Mr. Hoveler pointed out, and he proceeded to show the harmful effects produced by faulty distribution and diffusion, which not only decrease the efficiency of workers and consequently cut down production, but increase the risk of accidents. The need of proper lamps and proper reflectors for the different kinds of work, each with peculiar light requirements, is one that is a study in itself and Mr. Hoveler exhibited scores of stereoscopic slides to illustrate the points he covered. These showed the development of artificial lighting facilities from pre-historic times, when fire-brands were used, down to the present. One of the curious slides shown was a "firefly box" used by pre-historic people. This was a melon-shaped affair, with small holes in the outer wall through which rays of light from the imprisoned fireflies shone forth.

Good lighting, to sum up the points covered by Mr. Hoveler, means increased efficiency, lessened risk of accident, greater accuracy, greater contentedness, better supervision and better health.

BUYS GOOD STEEDS

A. E. Dafeo of Junction City spent part of Monday in town while returning from the Bunea Vista drainage district, where he purchased four head of horses for use on the farm he now occupies but which was recently sold to Fred Becklenberg of Chicago. A span of mares was bought from Wm. Holland and a mare and colt from Wm. H. Brewin. All are exceptionally fine animals.

THREE TEACHERS ENGAGED

Miss Pearl Skaltzky of this city has been re-engaged as teacher of second grade work at Redgranite. The school at Lohrville, just beyond the first mentioned village, will have two Stevens Point girls as instructors next year, Miss Sylvia Shepreau being in charge of the second and third grades and Miss Beatrice Cady will do primary work. All are graduates of Stevens Point schools.

HOME ON FURLOUGH

Russell Gray, who reported for training as a member of Motor Ambulance Corps, No. 1, 1st Wisconsin Regiment, a few weeks ago, arrived home Sunday night on a five days' furlough. The corps to which he belongs was at Whitefish Bay, near Milwaukee, for two weeks, after which the equipment was moved to Camp Douglas, en route to which place the corps spent a night at Camp Randall, Madison. The corps, which includes 119 men, now has its full equipment, including a roadster for the first officer, a 7 passenger car for the second officer, 12 ambulance cars, 1 repair car, 2 heavy trucks and 10 motorcycles with side cars. The uniforms of the men are of the regular khaki material. Gray is enthusiastic over the work and has been congratulating himself on his enlistment.

PUT IN POWER SORTER

The Wm. Carley potato warehouse at Bancroft is being equipped with a machine for sorting tubers and carrying them to the various bins or compartments. The potatoes are moved onto a device comprising several chutes to which are attached buckets or pockets, the different sizes falling into these automatically and then conveyed to the bins. Power is furnished by a gasoline engine.

Martin Suskie of the town of Buena Vista, accompanied by his wife, spent Monday in the city. Mr. Suskie is among the men called in the first draft and was examined on Monday.

He passed the physical examination but as he has laid claim to exemption because of being a married man, is not certain whether or not he will be among those selected.

JEROME J. KINGSBURY

Former Stevens Point Resident Dies Suddenly At Antigo—Funeral Held Monday

Lying down on a couch in his office for a short nap following his noon day meal, J. J. Kingsbury, prominent Antigo business man and old resident of Stevens Point, lapsed into a sleep of death last Thursday afternoon. Mr. Kingsbury, who was a half-brother of W. E. Kingsbury of Stevens Point and had a large personal acquaintance here, had been in failing health for about two years, but his death was sudden and unexpected. It was about 3:30 o'clock in the afternoon when the bookkeeper in his office discovered that he was dead.

John Jerome Kingsbury was sixty-five years of age, having been born March 26, 1852, at Bangor, Maine. His father, J. R. Kingsbury, who was a pioneer merchant and lumberman of Stevens Point and was three times elected county judge of Portage county, came to this city in May, 1859, and was joined by his family the following November. Jerome, as the son was best known, grew to manhood here and early became interested in the lumbering industry. He was for a time associated with his brother, Forrest W. Kingsbury, but in 1882 entered into partnership with George L. Rogers, with whom he continued until 1890. In the meantime the company logged and manufactured lumber at various points, including Westboro, Whittlesley and Cornell.

In the fall of 1890 Mr. Kingsbury went to Antigo, where he had since made his home. He was in partnership there with C. E. Henshaw, their business consisting of a grist mill and saw mill.

Mr. Kingsbury was married in Stevens Point in 1872 to Miss Alice Page, who, with six children, survives. The children are: A. J. Kingsbury, Tulsa, Okla.; Carl W. Kingsbury, Tulsa, Okla.; John E. Kingsbury, Antigo; Mrs. George Kircher, Olivia, Minn., and Beatrice and Leigh Kingsbury, Antigo. He also leaves a brother, Forrest W. Kingsbury of Evansville, Ind., two sisters, Miss Tina Kingsbury of Wausau and Mrs. Bertha Reed of Minneapolis, and two half-brothers, W. E. Kingsbury of Stevens Point and Walter Kingsbury of Oklahoma.

The funeral was held at Antigo Monday afternoon, the services being conducted on the lawn at the Kingsbury home by Rev. Father Hinton of the Episcopal church of that city. Mr. Kingsbury was a Consistory Mason, having first affiliated with the Masonic order in Stevens Point years ago. A delegation of 80 Masons attended the funeral, including a Knights Templar escort of sixteen. Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Kingsbury, W. F. Parker, F. A. Ball and George L. Rogers of this city attended the funeral, at which A. W. Brown and W. E. Brown of Rhinelander, boyhood friends of the deceased, were also present.

The passing of Mr. Kingsbury brings to a close the life of a man who was big hearted, honorable and universally respected. During his residence in Stevens Point he made friendships that have endured, and his prominence among the citizenship of Antigo was a matter of common knowledge among his friends here. The family and other relatives have the deep sympathy of Stevens Point people in their heavy loss.

CALLED EAST BY DRAFT

Mr. and Mrs. E. G. Yokers and little daughter, who had been visiting for three weeks with relatives in this city and at the gentleman's old home in Buena Vista, boarded Sunday morning's train on their return to Hamilton, Ohio. They were accompanied by Mrs. Yokers' mother, Mrs. John E. Leary, who will spend several months in the east. Mr. Yokers, who represents the Watkins Remedy Co., in Butler county, Ohio, was called back sooner than expected to undergo an examination demanded by the draft.

MICHAEL AJESKI DIES

Michael Ajeski, aged 85 years, died at his home, 518 Briggs street, in this city last Friday morning, death being caused by exhaustion. He had been ailing for over a year prior to his death. The deceased was born in Germany in 1832. After coming to this country, he lived for many years on a farm in the town of Sharon, but moved to this city about a year ago. Surviving relatives include his wife and seven children. The funeral was held from St. Peter's Catholic church Monday morning, with interment in the Guardian Angel's cemetery.

RUNNING RETAIL YARD

Dr. and Mrs. W. P. Mailer and Mr. and Mrs. C. H. Vetter made an automobile trip to Oxford last Sunday and were accompanied on the return journey by the ladies' uncle, J. N. Manchester, a former Stevens Point resident who has been a resident of the Oxford country for several years. Mr. Manchester visited until today. He is engaged in the contracting business and also conducts a retail lumber yard for E. J. Pfiffner Co. of this city. The yard was established last year and already enjoys a wonderfully good business. Oxford is located in Marquette county and has Northwestern railroad facilities.

TO DEVELOP DRAINAGE LAND

The raising of cabbage and other garden truck on a large scale will be attempted in the Dancy drainage district next year on land now owned by Fred Becklenberg of Chicago, a millionaire real estate man. He has authorized his local representative, A. E. Dafeo, to make contracts for clearing several hundred acres—or thousands if sufficient help can be secured—and the work will be started at once. The soil will be plowed with the aid of a tractor and put in condition for spring planting. If any of our readers are looking for work, they should see Mr. Dafeo or address him at Junction City.

WOULD EDUCATE PEOPLE

Marshall C. Graff of Wausau representing the University extension division, was in the city Tuesday in connection with a proposed war service bureau. The extension division proposed to send out expert lecturers to appear during a period of two weeks at various points to present the home problems raised by the war. The lecturers would be followed by trained instructors, who would give "intensive training" to a selected few for six or eight weeks in civilian relief work or "neighborly service." The University is only "feeling out" the local communities now, but if the sentiment is favorable will go ahead with the plan.

OUTING AT THE LAKE

The Portage County Junior Club picnic was held at Lake Emily last Friday, more than 80 persons attending. At the picnic dinner the various local clubs gathered in groups. Girls of the East Nelsonville canning club appeared in the uniforms in which they work, while the boys from East Nelsonville served strawberry parfait.

A program followed the picnic dinner and was opened with declamations by Leonard O'Keefe of Arnott and Marian Kates of Stockton. The next number was a selection by the East Nelsonville girls, which was followed by a short speech by Master Earl O'Keefe. County Supt. Gordon and County Agent Coyner were the concluding speakers on the program.

The picnic was in charge of County Agent Coyner, the Misses Gertrude Britz and Leonore Tovey, and Mrs. Ray Gibbs of Stockton, Henry Swensen of East Nelsonville and Arthur Peterson and Miss Myrtle Howen of East Nelsonville.

If more people would profit by the experience of others their way through life would be much easier.

HOW SHE WAS CURED

By ETHEL HOLMES

Mrs. McGinnis was not expected to live through the day. For a year she had been an inmate of St. Luke's hospital, gradually growing worse till at last she had been given up by the house physician, and now he pronounced the end very near. The difficulty in her case had been to diagnose it. It was not in the liver nor the heart nor the kidneys, the three organs to which physicians refer the bulk of their cases. It might be that the stomach was affecting the nerves or the nerves the stomach. At any rate, there was no nourishment derived from food, and the patient suffered from nervous debility.

"Has she any relatives?" asked the physician.

"She's married and has children."

"Well, notify the husband."

Now, it so happened that Pat McGinnis, having to work hard all day, with no one to take care of four young children during his absence, had called to a comely young woman for housekeeper and nurse. It was not long before Miss Mulcahy, who occupied the position, had drawn a promise from Pat that after his wife's death he would marry her.

On the day Pat was summoned to the bedside of his dying wife he had taken a half holiday to go shopping with Miss Mulcahy, who, it having been reported to her that Mrs. McGinnis could not last long, was quietly picking up a trousseau. He took his conditional fiancée with him to the hospital to wait in the reception room while he bid his wife a last farewell, after which they very to continue their shopping. Mrs. McGinnis was lying in a ward on the ground floor, from which she had a fine view of the approach to the hospital. She saw her husband coming in with Miss Mulcahy, and it was a revelation to her. A man, whose intuitions in such matters are sluggish, would likely have died before the revelation had broken in on his stupid brain. Not so Mrs. McGinnis. The story of her husband's relations with Miss Mulcahy was not only as plain to her the moment she saw them coming in together as it has been recorded here, but a great deal plainer. Indeed, her mind shot out little radiations of intelligence, giving her minute pictures which have been necessarily omitted in this bold statement of facts. When Pat entered the ward and was conducted to the bedside of his wife his face wore a very solemn aspect, nor was it assumed. Mrs. McGinnis was the mother of his children and had been a good wife to him till disease deprived him and them of her attention. Indeed, he felt so deeply that it was not easy to open a conversation. She spared him the trouble. There was a flash in her eyes and a drawing down at the corners of her mouth not at all becoming to one about to enter paradise. Instead of lying on her back she raised herself and supported herself by an elbow.

"Pat," she said, "you're a good man. I never lied to me. Now tell me who's been tending the children?"

"I got Mary Mulcahy to do it."

"And who's going to do it when I'm gone?"

"I suppose she'll stay on."

"What's been done with her this afternoon?"

Pat started.

"Don't lie to me, Pat. I never did it, and I never will do it unless some woman persuades me. What's been done?"

"Mary was doing some shopping."

"And what's Mary's shopping to you?"

Pat stood silently silent. His eyes rolled everywhere; his tongue moved not.

"Do I think the bauns 'I'll be published next Sunday?' asked his wife.

Still Pat was silent. His thoughts were tumultuous.

"And the wedding the day after the last banns?"

Pat signified his distress by changing the leg that supported the principal part of his weight.

"Have you said anything about this at confession?"

"Never a word. But how did you know 't all?"

"Pat, you go right out and find that woman away, and don't let her go back to my place. Tell her O'll be there the night meet."

"Howly saints!" exclaimed Pat, crossing himself.

"Send her away, I say."

"For the love o' heaven, Bridget, what's going to do?"

"Goin' home to the childer." D'ye suppose O'll be able to do as I've 'em to the mercy o' that heavy, who can't wait till O'll be dead before preparin' to take me place?"

Within an hour the patient was driving up to her own domicile, into which she walked, and she has long ago completely recovered her health. The case is noted in the medical books as one especially illustrating the influence of the mind over the body.

THE KITCHEN CUPBOARD

SIMPLE LUNCHEONS.

PEA SALAD.—Boast cupful of left-over peas, three tablespoonsful of chopped sweet pickles, one tablespoonful of minced onion. Mix thoroughly and heap on two plates covered with crisp lettuce. Sprinkle grated cheese on top. Cover with any preferred dressing.

Peanut Salad.—Soak a pint of peanut meats in olive oil, drain and mix lightly with the same quantity of diced celery and a dozen pitted olives. Serve on lettuce leaves.

Ham Cakes.—Any bits of cold ham can be worked up with cold potatoes and made into quite a tasty dish for luncheon. Put the ham through the food chopper and mix with an equal quantity of potatoes, using an egg or not as preferred. Shape into small cakes, dip in flour and fry in pork (salt) or bacon fat.

Vegetable Consomme.—Melt one-fourth cupful of butter, add one turnip, one carrot and one potato cut into dice and one sliced onion and stir and cook until a light brown. Remove from the fire, add one-half cupful of celery tops, one cupful of tomatoes, a sprig of parsley, two teaspoonfuls of salt, one-fourth teaspoonful of pepper and two quarts of cold water. Cover and let simmer one hour. Add one teaspoonful of kitchen bouquet, strain, reheat and serve.

Peanut Soup.—Peanut soup is made like a dried pea soup. Soak three cupfuls of nut meats overnight in two quarts of water, add a stalk of celery, a bay leaf, a slice of onion and a blade of mace. Simmer four or five hours, stirring often to avoid scorching. Rub through a sieve and return to the fire. When hot add a cupful of rich milk or cream, boil it and serve with croutons.

Macaroni and Kidney.—One-half pound beef kidney, one-quarter pound macaroni, one chopped onion, two cupfuls water, one-half teaspoonful salt, one-quarter teaspoonful pepper. Remove the core, skin and fat from the kidney and cut it in small pieces. Place the kidney in a saucepan, add macaroni, onion, water and seasonings. Cover and place in a fairly hot oven and let it cook for two and one-half hours.

SUNDAY NIGHT SUPPERS.

KIDNEY AND ONION.—Take a sheep's kidney and a fair sized Spanish onion. Skin the kidney and season to taste. Peel the onion, cut from top to bottom, but not quite through, hollow out the inside sufficiently to hold the kidney, then place the kidney inside the hollow, close the onion and tie together tightly then place the onion in a covered stewpan with two or three tablespoonfuls of water and stew gently two hours.

A Stew.—Free leg stew is delicious. Place the legs in just enough boiling water to cover them. Flavor with salt, pepper and parsley, a suggestion of bay leaf and a little lemon juice. Stew till tender. Now strain off the liquor, which should have boiled away to about half its original quantity, and add an equal part of cream. Cook this gravy for a few minutes and pour it over the legs and serve at once.

Walnut Stew With Tomato Fingers.—Put two cupfuls of blanched walnut meats into a saucepan; cover with chicken stock and simmer thirty minutes; then drain and reserve the stock. Brown two tablespoonfuls of butter; stir in one tablespoonful of flour; add the drained off stock and cook until smooth. Add the nuts, a seasoning of salt and pepper, a dusting of mace and serve with tomato fingers.

Cucumbers and Tomatoes.—Peel a cucumber and cut into slices, stamp out the seeds and put the rings into a saucepan with enough stock to cover them. Cook for twenty minutes and strain off. Have small tomatoes peeled and the seeds scooped out, season them with pepper, salt and a little chopped onion, very finely chopped bacon, putting a teaspoonful of the bacon in each tomato. Place them in a greased tin and bake in the oven for fifteen minutes. Dish each of them on a fried crouton of bread and arrange the rings of cucumber on the top of each tomato. Blend in a saucepan over the fire a tablespoonful of butter and the same of flour, mix well till smooth, then add gradually a cupful of the liquor in which the cucumber was boiled, stir till boiling, add a few drops of vinegar, half a teaspoonful of made mustard, a pinch of paprika, a tablespoonful of cream, two tablespoonfuls of finely shredded lettuce and cook for ten minutes.

What Women Like to Know

For Travelers' Wear

The raincoat shown herewith is of waterproof silk tissue, with effect of a woman's soft weather in collar. This garment is especially nice for traveling because of its lightness and quality of packing in small compass. Coats come in all vivid colors. Design by Franklin Simon & Co., New York city.

Many and Various Uses

Of a Cake of Yellow Soap

Common yellow soap will stop a mouse hole effectively.

Make bureau drawers and windows which are inclined to stick work smoothly.

Relieve the pain from a burn.

Combined with brown sugar will bring painful gathering to a head and will draw out a splinter from under the finger nail.

Mixed with stove blacking will lessen the labor of applying and improve the result.

Will stop a leak in boiler in emergency cases.

Will serve as a substitute for wax to point darning yarn.

Rubbed on a nail prevents the wood through which it is driven from splitting.

The inner wrappings of the soap are useful to clean flatirons.

Clean and Use Again Old Paraffin.

Paraffin that has become unclean through usage in canning and preserving may be cleaned and reused. Don't throw it away because dirt and trash have become mixed with it. Many times paraffin can be cleaned with a brush in cold water. If this does not remove all the dirt, says a specialist of the United States department of agriculture, heat the paraffin to boiling and strain it through two or three thicknesses of cheesecloth placed over a funnel. Or a thin layer of absorbent cotton over a thickness of cheesecloth may be used as a strainer. One straining should be sufficient ordinarily, but if the paraffin still is unclean heat and strain again. Any paraffin lodging in the strainer may be recovered by heating the cloth and pouring off the hot liquid to another strainer.

Rejuvenating a Floor.

It is quite possible to convert a dingy, dark old floor into a very attractive one golden brown in color. In the first place, it should be carefully and thoroughly cleaned. Next paint the floor over with one coat of thin white paint. This, according to one housekeeper of an experimental nature, must be so very thin that it will resemble a sheer gauzy veil. Let that dry, then give the floor two coats of orange shellac. Of course the first one must be allowed to dry before the second is put on. This will not only change an ugly floor into an attractive one, but will give it a good hard finish.

SUNSHINE.

Don't be afraid of sunshine and fresh air. They offer you bloom and color. And deep breathing is surely the handmaid of the fresh air nurse. Deep breathing gives a fine figure as well as a clear complexion.

HOW To Deal With the Clothes Moth

At this season of the year the tiny, yellowish moth which is seen occasionally flitting about the light at night is an indication to the housekeeper that clothes moths are beginning their work of destruction. In other words, egg laying by these little moths is now under way, and within a month the eating of woollens and furs by the tiny caterpillars coming from these eggs may be anticipated.

The moths which are thus attracted to the lamps at night or fly away from garments or portieres when these are handled do not themselves eat anything and could not eat if they wanted to, as they have no biting or chewing mouth parts. The destruction, as every housekeeper knows, is occasioned entirely by the tiny larvae working underneath scanty webs or in the little cases made from particles of the garments on which they feed, webbed to gether by a whitish silk.

As early as possible in the season all woollens, furs, etc., the use of which can be dispensed with should be put away in safe storage for the summer. Before being packed away such articles should be thoroughly brushed and beaten and if possible exposed to the strong sunlight for several hours out of doors. The brushing is very important in order to remove the eggs or young larvae which may have escaped notice. Articles so cleaned and sunned should then be put away in mothproof containers. Materials which cannot be thus put away should be given the same thorough cleaning and reinspection during the summer, preferably every two weeks. In no case should such examinations be at intervals of greater than three weeks or a month.

Woolen clothing, furs, etc., may be packed away safely for the summer by inclosing them in several wrappings of paper or in well made bags of cotton or linen cloth or in paper sacks, which can be tied or otherwise securely fastened to prevent ingress of the moths. In these packages can be placed such repellents as tobacco dust, camphor, naphthalene cones or balls, cedar chips, etc. The odors of these substances are disagreeable to the parent moths and act as a repellent, but they will not kill eggs or larvae which may be inclosed in the packages; hence the necessity of the thorough-going cleaning and airing prior to packing away. The same precautions are needed with cedar chests and wardrobes.

The best means of protection from clothes moths and a method now available in all larger towns are the refrigerating rooms provided for that purpose in practically all storage warehouses, and the adoption of this method is strongly recommended.

Rugs on carpets put away for the summer should be first thoroughly cleaned on both sides and beaten and then wrapped up in tight rolls protected by wrapping with tar paper. The additional covering or baling with burlap is not necessary except where the rolls or bales are to be transported or will require considerable handling.

DRYING VEGETABLES.

How to Preserve Them Successfully by a New Method.

Mrs. H. B. Fullerton and Mrs. Nellie F. Snyder, two experts on canning and preserving, have prepared the following formula for drying fruits, vegetables and other food products:

Begin the temperature for small fruits and corn loaf, at 100, and gradually increase to 175, being careful not to burn. For all other fruits and vegetables start at 175, work downward and close at 160.

In average climates eight to twelve hours will be required, but where the moisture is great or much dampness prevails a longer time will be required for drying. Usually it takes from eight to ten hours to dry perfectly. Then the products should be thrown together, away from the heat, and stirred occasionally to go through a sweat, so to speak, and then placed in paper cartons and kept in a dry place.

Here are directions for curing for inclosures:

After the hatching season is over for chickens do not let incubators remain idle, but make extra trays, have the doors partly open and use them as dryers.

Sun drying can be done in the old fashioned way, but will take from three to five days longer in ordinary climates near the water. During the close of the last period stir and let go through sweating.

How to Get Rid of Troublesome Recess Insects Easily.

The rose slug in the fly state is shiny black, about a fifth of an inch in length, usually found on the under side of the leaves or flying from bush to bush. About the 1st of June the first young slugs hatch and increase during the month. They are pale green, almost transparent and feed on the leaves, which look as if they had been burned. Dry slaked lime scattered over the leaves while they are wet with dew is said to be effective. Syringing the plants daily for eight days with fish oil soap (one pound dissolved in eight gallons of water) when the flies first appear will keep most of them away.

The rose chafer or rose bug is a small beetle with a slender body tapering at both ends, about three-eighths of an inch in length, covered with a yellowish down. They usually appear the middle of June and are troublesome from four to six weeks. They should be destroyed by shaking them off into a pan of kerosene oil.

WHY Gardens Should Be Frequently and Adequately Cultivated

"TICKLE the ground with the hoe," runs an old adage, "and you will make it laugh with the harvest."

That is only another way of saying that cultivation is necessary in order to make the garden grow, and cultivation reduced to its lowest terms means nothing more or less than the constant use of the hoe.

The average amateur supposes that the reason why he hoes the garden is to keep down the weeds. That, of course, is a necessary part of gardening, but every time the ground is stirred what is termed by farmers a "dust mulch" is created, which serves to lock the moisture into the ground.

Everybody knows that the oil in a lamp rises through the wick by reason of what is termed capillary action. The moisture rises through the soil in exactly the same way when the surface is packed hard, then being evaporated and lost in the air.

When the surface of the soil is kept loose this escape of the moisture is greatly retarded. It follows, therefore, that the most important time of all for cultivating the garden is as soon after a rain as the ground can be worked. It must not be hoed when sticky, but prompt cultivation will help to hold the water which has entered the ground.

It is also very important to cultivate frequently during a dry season, for the sun bakes the earth unless it is kept constantly stirred. A good hoeing in midsummer is often worth almost as much as a shower.

The time to start cultivation is the moment the plants begin to poke their heads through the ground. It is necessary to have air as well as water in the soil if the plants are to thrive, and this is accomplished when cultivation keeps the soil loose.

Of course it isn't necessary to use a hand hoe all the time. If the garden is a large one, a wheel hoe is almost a necessity, although much labor can be saved with a grubber hoe if the soil is not heavy and full of stones.

Once a week is none too often to cultivate the garden all the season through, and the most successful gardeners will probably hoe the crops twice as often. The oftener this work is done the easier it becomes, for it is not at all hard to cultivate soil which is in good tilth, while ground which has become baked by the sun or packed by the rain is difficult to loosen up.

Cultivation, therefore, should be set down as one of the indispensable items of garden work, even though it may not sound quite so attractive as planting the seeds or harvesting the crops.

GROWING ASTERS.

How to Avoid the Blight of the Plant Bug.

The tarnished plant bug is every bit as bad as he is painted, and the entomologists offer no help. The bugs are most active and most numerous in dry weather, when the plants are least able to withstand the infection which the bugs carry. This is "kicking a man when he is down." They seldom work in shade, and asters grow well in shade that is not too dense. A young orchard gives about the right conditions. There is one grower who has had fine asters in his pear orchard many years in succession. On another place the asters planted in the open ground last summer were ruined by plant bugs, but those in a garden inclosed by a tall hemlock hedge were fine in spite of neglect and a hard clay soil. Corn has often been suggested as a shade for asters, but it has not been well tried out. At planting time we all think that this year may be one of the seasons when the bugs will not be troublesome. The earliest varieties of asters, if they escape stem rot, are out of the way before the bugs get bad. This is assuming that they are planted as soon as the ground will do the work in the spring. If well hardened in cold frames before setting out they will stand a hard frost. Some of the most profitable crops encountered either a snowstorm or frozen ground after planting out.

How the First Telegram Ever Sent Was Received.

We have been told that the first telegram to be sent over the wires was "What hath God wrought?" Now it comes to light that this was not the first message. The very first one was sent by one of the committee which was debating upon the proposal to string a telegraph wire from Baltimore to Washington. Mr. Morse, who wanted to end the discussion, strung a wire from the committee room to the top of the capitol, according to Popular Science Monthly. One of the committee, who was an opponent to President Tyler, wrote the words, "Tyler deserves to be hanged," and this was received by the men at the other end exactly the way it was written.

Why There is the Ammonia Taint in Artificial Ice.

Artificial ice nearly always has the smell of ammonia, and yet it does not come in contact with the ammonia itself. This fact is explained by reason that water absorbs the ammonia vapor. Artificial ice is made by immersing a vessel of distilled water in brine, which is cooled by pipes containing evaporating ammonia. Not infrequently ammonia leaks through the joints of the pipes, and it is this vapor in the air that is caught and imprisoned by the distilled water as it freezes into blocks of ice.

HOW TO TAKE CARE OF AN AQUARIUM

Have you ever had trouble taking care of an aquarium? Does the water turn green, and do your fish die? Now, don't be discouraged. Get out your aquarium and let's start all over again, and you will see what a fine one you can have and keep too. A five gallon bowl is big enough to hold a dozen medium sized fish, and they'll be well and happy as they can be. The very first thing to do is to find a good place to keep the bowl, for you cannot move it around. A northern exposure is best, for too much light makes the water turn green too quickly. The next thing is to get some nice river sand and wash it thoroughly until it is very, very clean, and then put in about two inches of this sand, covering the bottom of the five gallon tank. Now for the water plants. Either the cabomba or myriophyllum are good, hardy plants. Two bunches of either of these will be plenty, and after you have taken off the lead pull off all the leaves about an inch from the bottom of the stems, so you can plant them in the sand more easily.

After this you must let the aquarium stand for several days so the water will become clear and full of air before putting in the fish. And now for the great moment when you select your fish! American gold and silver fish are a little more expensive than some others, but they are much harder than the cheaper ones, and you must be careful to choose strong, healthy fish. If their fins are frayed out or if they have humps right back of their heads or on their backs you may be sure they are sick.

For a dozen goldfish a piece of prepared fish food about two inches square given every other day is plenty. And it's a splendid plan, too, to give the fish a very little scraped beef once a week, but you must be very, very careful to take out all that is not eaten. You can replenish the water from time to time, but be sure always to pour it over your hands. If you put a pinch of salt in the water, if the fish appear ill, you will find it does them a great deal of good.

FOOD PREJUDICES.

Why They Should Be Abandoned For the Sake of Economy.

Be willing to try new foods. Certain plentiful and nourishing foods widely used and enjoyed in one section are practically unknown in other sections of the country. Learn to know all the good things, not a few only.

People too easily get into food rut—inlet on eating only the food they are used to and refuse to give a fair trial to others. This causes undue demand for certain staples, with resulting scarcity or high prices when crops are short. At the same time other valuable foods may be relatively cheap and available. A striking instance of this is failure fully to appreciate rice—a valuable source of starch—when potatoes are scarce and high. Another example is refusal in certain sections to use anything but wheat as a breadstuff when corn—a valuable cereal widely used elsewhere as a breadstuff—is plentiful and relatively cheap.

Learn how to cook all kinds of staple foods and to serve them in a variety of ways. Simple dishes well prepared are better than expensive foods badly cooked.

Many persons are prejudiced against certain good foods because when first tried the foods were improperly cooked. Remove from your vocabulary "don't like" or "can't eat."

Most individual prejudices against widely popular foods are either imaginary or baseless.

Try to like every simple food; give it a fair trial.

Demonstrate thrift in your home. Make saving rather than spending your social standard.—United States Department of Agriculture.

How Country Folk Interpret Common Rain Signs.

The people in our country very seldom need a weather forecaster to tell them if the morrow will be clear. In eighty-five cases out of a hundred they will tell you it will rain within three days if there is a ring around the moon or sun.

Another old maxim believed in by the country folks is "the farther the sight the nearer the rain." When the people of a mountainous region can see a distant peak that is usually invisible they know that it is too good to last and will rain soon. There are sound scientific reasons for every one of the above signs, as well as for the belief that sounds carry better when a rainstorm is near.

How Flags Should Be Hoisted.

When a flagpole is in a slanting or horizontal position, if the rope holding the upper corner of the flag be pulled very tight and the rope holding the lower corner be slackened somewhat, thus allowing the flag to drop slightly away from the pole, the wind will spin out of it. This will do much to prevent the flag from wrapping around the pole.

A little experimenting will show how much to slack away the lower corner. It depends on the size of the flag and the angle of the pole.

PIONEER LOGGER DIES

Stoner L. Virum, Woods Superintendent and Esteemed Local Resident, Passes Out

Approaching the end with the fortitude so characteristic a part of his being, Stoner L. Virum, logging superintendent for the John Week Lumber Co. and timber cruiser of the "pinery" days, passed from life at his home, 104 Portage street, at 4:15 o'clock last Friday afternoon.

His death occurred the same day as that of Andrew R. Week, secretary and treasurer of the John Week Lumber Co., who passed away at Hollywood, California, that morning. Mr. Virum was aware of the seriousness of the condition of Mr. Week, from whom he received a letter only a few days before the end, and seemed to be more concerned over the state of his employer's health than of his own. The attachment that had grown up between them during many years of close association was marked, and Mr. Virum's hopes were always for Mr. Week's recovery.

Prior to the commencement of the illness that resulted in his death, Mr. Virum had hardly been sick a day. A month before his death he was compelled to give up work, but it was not until two weeks later that his condition became such that he found it necessary to remain in bed. A trained nurse was then engaged to take charge of his case, which was immediately recognized as serious, although hope was not abandoned until the last. Pleuro-pneumonia, with complications, was the cause of death.

Undoubtedly, Oxendale, Norway, was the birthplace of Stoner L. Virum, April 23, 1850, so that at the time of his death he was in the sixty-sixth year of his age. A youth of seventeen he came to the United States and for a few years thereafter sailed the Great Lakes. Abandoning the mariner's life he came to Wisconsin and became an employee of the late John Week, one of the early day pinery lumbermen of central Wisconsin and founder of the concern that still bears his name. Mr. Week was then operating on the Big Eau Pleine, in Marathon county, and Mr. Virum, whose physique was equal to the strict requirements of employment in the industry in those early days, began his life's vocation at the "bottom rung of the ladder."

As a logging authority, Mr. Virum was known throughout the state. He was familiar with every detail of the business and to him is attributed in no small measure the steady success enjoyed by his employing company, which is today one of the city's most important industrial concerns. Forty years of continuous service with the John Week Lumber Co. is proof of his loyalty, and his record as a citizen in the community is without tarnish. Quiet by nature and simple in his tastes, Mr. Virum was a true friend and one whose word was as good as his bond. Sorrow occasioned by his death is shared by all who enjoyed his acquaintance.

On September 1, 1884, in this city, Mr. Virum was married to Miss Karen Hansen, who survives. They were the parents of four children, two of whom, Louis Frederick and Martha, died in infancy. The surviving children are Mrs. H. E. Schreiner of Lancaster, Wisconsin, who assisted in her father's care for two weeks preceding the end, and Hans Virum, at home. Other relatives include a niece, Miss Ethel Stark, who has made her home with the Virum family since childhood, and a sister, Mrs. Mary Peterson of this city.

The funeral was held Monday afternoon at 2 o'clock from the residence and at 2:30 o'clock from Trinity Lutheran church, burial following in Forest cemetery. Rev. Theodore Ringoe officiated. The pall bearers were chosen from among Mr. Virum's old associates and friends and were as follows: David Whitney, Thomas Bronson, Ole Roseth, Sr., Ole Roseth, Jr., Theodore Larson and Ole Larson. Among those who attended the funeral were the following from out of the city: Mr. and Mrs. Hans Hanson, Munsing, Mich.; E. T. Woodward, Minneapolis; H. E. Schreiner, Lancaster, and Mrs. George Mader, Wisconsin.

Mr. Virum was a member of the Odd Fellow lodge of Unity.

OWNS 64,000 ACRES

Fred Becklenberg, who now owns the Malick farm in Linwood and large tracts of land in Eau Claire township, was up from Chicago for an over Sunday visit with A. E. Dufoe near Junction City. It is said that Mr. Becklenberg's total holdings of real estate comprise approximately 64,000 acres, a good portion of which is located in Wisconsin and Illinois.

SLEEPINESS AFTER MEALS.

It Indicates Something Wrong With the Digestive System.

A condition of drowsiness, which may become an irresistible desire to take a nap shortly after eating, is usually a very accurate indication that something is wrong with the digestive apparatus. Usually this form of indigestion is chronic in character, and apparently there is no other evidence that it exists, or at least such evidence would not be detected by ordinary observation.

In such cases the desire to take a nap comes on suddenly, but the nap is a very short one, ordinarily not more than fifteen minutes. Sometimes the desire for these "indigestion naps" comes on at other periods than those immediately following meals, but in such cases this desire comes regularly at certain periods of the day. The cause, however, is the same as in cases where drowsiness comes on immediately after the meal, the difference in time being simply the difference in the interval required for the food to reach the portion of the intestinal tract that is not working properly.

Occasional drowsiness following an unusually hearty meal should not be confused with the type of periodic desire for a short nap referred to here. Such drowsiness indicates simply that the digestive apparatus is temporarily overworked and may be in a perfectly healthy condition. This sort of drowsiness, if indulged, usually persists for several hours, whereas the naps caused by indigestion are always of short duration.—Exchange.

Statistics are impersonal. They say nothing of who the women are nor why they come nor what they find instead of what they expect. They don't say there's tragedy in a head shake. And a laugh round the edge of tragedy.

Statistics haven't told the whole story. They do not say that hope, promise, disaster wait a hundred times a day for the woman who comes to New York.—Winifred Van Duser in New York American.
